Cobbledick Resigns Council Post

School Cost Cut Ordered

With formal hearing on their budget for the 1955-56 school year set for next Monday night Menlo Park Elementary School District trustees this week ordered administrators to cut the budget from its present $921,311 to a total of $909,524.

While ordering the cut, the trustees gave no specific orders as to what items should be trimmed District Business Manager John R Richert said that he was contemplating a series of small budget cuts, affecting almost all items.

The cuts were ordered as trustees attempted to hold the district's tax rate somewhere closer to $1.60 per $100 assessed valuation. If the full budget is spent, the district's tax rate will rise to $1.613.

(An earlier report, based on an error in transmission of information concerning the district's assessed tax valuation, indicated two weeks ago that the tax rate might go as high as $1.66. Hence this week's study session was called. More recently, it was found that the district will be able to base its tax rate on an assessed valuation of $27,435,678, an increase of $1,235,678 over the figure previously reported.—ed.)

The trustees, after viewing the budgeted items this week, told Richert the necessary cuts would have to be made by the administration itself.

District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld, who returned this week after conducting summer school courses at the Utah College of Agriculture at Logan, will work with Richert in going over the budget and recommending the changes called for.

Meanwhile, details of the budget were given formal publication this week. The Menlo Park District's budget breakdown appears in the "legal notices" section of the Recorder.

Council Pushes Use of New Parking Plazas

The slow process of bringing to reality the city's new parking plazas on the southerly side of Santa Cruz avenue moved ahead this week, but a possible completion date still appeared somewhere between two months and one year away.

While start of paving for the project still remained clouded by failure of the city as yet to secure nine parcels of property through negotiation, some relief for the crowded downtown parking situation was indicated by decision of the city council Tuesday night to call for bids on purchase and removal of buildings located on three of the nine parcels already acquired.

So soon as this is accomplished, Mayor Charles P. Burgess said, city street crews will clear and level these lots so that shoppers may use them for parking —at least until the winter rains begin — without final installation of the pavement.

In order to speed this operation, councilmen called for the bids to be opened at an adjourned regular meeting on Aug. 16. After that, according to City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr., the successful bidder will sign a contract

Deeds to four more parcels, out of the 18 necessary for the project, were presented Tuesday night by city right-of-way agent David Ingram and were accepted by the council. The four deeds, calling for expenditure of a total of $37,745.63, brought to nine the number acquired to date.

Ruling on Evidence Sought:

Menlo Park Marijuana Case to Go To State Supreme Court for Precedent

The case of Alan K. Gorg, Menlo Park man convicted on charges of possession and cultivation of marijauana, will go to the state supreme court.

The state's highest tribunal, which has ruled that a search warrant must be secured before officers can search a private premises even if they have reason to believe evidence may be found there, received the case this week from the district court of appeals.

No date has been set for the supreme court hearing.

Gorg was caught by police last February, while apparently attempting to shoplift several items of food from a Menlo Park market

Subsequently, police got the permission of his landlord to search his apartment at 323 Oakwood place. They said they found a tub of marijuana plants growing there. Pending theft charges were dropped as the officers concentrated on the narcotics case.

In May, a jury convicted Gorg of cultivation and possession of the drug, and the 23-year-old former law student was sentenced to 60 days in jail. The sentence was not executed, however, being postponed pending the current appeal.

The appeal was made by Gorg's attorney, Dennis Woodman of Ladera. Woodman, in his court presentation, scored Menlo Park police for their methods of securing evidence — the first time it has been questioned.

In the meantime the state supreme court, between the time of Gorg's arrest and the time his case came to trial, had stated that search warrants must be secured in all cases of this type.

Menlo Postoffice Up in Standing

Menlo Park's postoffice has advanced in national standing, as far as postal receipts are concerned, to 501st place, it was announced this week by Postmaster Harry B. Morey.

Information to this effect was received recently from national postal headquarters in Washington. Last year at this time the postoffice was 551st in the nation, meaning an advance of 50 places in a twelvemonth, Morey pointed out.

Noting the rapid rise was the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce. President Robert Starkweather Tuesday morning appointed Mrs. Alice Rowand, a director of the C of C, to continue the Chambers' program to help secure a new postoffice for Menlo Park. The present building has been occupied since 1947.

For Them, Vacation Is Over:

Public Hearings Swamp City Planners for Next Official Meet

Working through a long agenda Monday night, they found themselves confronted with five items which require public hearing — these were set for the next formal meeting of the group.

But, since July vacation days kept the commission from getting a quorum together and holding a formal meeting until just a week before the scheduled August session, they deferred next month's meeting until Aug. 15.

On that date, hearings will be held on:

1. A request by the Claude T. Lindsay company, asking rezonings and resubdivisions of the portion of Linfield Oaks adjacent to San Francisquito creek and Alma street.

The Claude T. Lindsay company, developers asked that the property be rezoned to allow construction of apartment houses facing Alma street, and 7000-square-foot, single-family lots in the remaining portions.

The request that the rezoning be considered came late at Monday's meeting. Lindsay, representing his own firm, had previously agreed to study the rezoning of the area as a whole, before attempting to develop it.

His request was tabled after Commissioner Charles Anderson made note of the previous agreement; the commission then moved to adjourn on a split vote.

Lindsay indicated that the property was up for sale and development by the Youritan Construction company; this development could be expedited if the planners would change the zoning to the new pattern.

2. A request asking that use permits be granted so that four lots facing Coleman place, in the Menlo Manor apartment subdivision, can be used for development of nursing homes.

Request was by Hillhaven, incorporated, of Tacoma, Wash.

Planners observed that the use is a legal one for an apartment house zone, although a use permit is required. Use permits can be granted by the commission, without public hearing, unless the use is considered possibly controversial.

3. A request of Earl Berendsen asking rezoning of two lots at Grayson court and Willow road from multiple-family use classification to commercial classification

Planners agreed to hear the matter, and on Aug. 8, at an informal study meeting, will study zoning problems in the area as a whole.

MORE PARKING

4. A request of Bettencourt's market, asking rezoning of a residential lot, facing Chestnut street in the rear of their market, from its present classification to one which would allow development of the property for offstreet parking.

When developed, the property will adjoin municipal parking plaza sites.

5. Request of Fred B. Rice, for a variance in side yard setback requirements on his property at 194 Felton drive.

For 1955-56 Operations:

City Sets Aug. 9 Budget Hearing; 15-Cent Capital Levy Proposed

Public hearing on Menlo Park's proposed budget of $519,268 and fixing of the city tax rate for the current fiscal year will be held at 8 p. m. Aug. 9 in the city council chambers.

As councilmen Tuesday night set the official hearing date, Mayor Charles P. Burgess indicated he would propose that an additional tax of 15 cents per $100 be levied for capital improvements.

The 15 cents, on top of the city's expected general fund rate of 65 cents per $100 valuation, still would leave the city rate 20 cents below the $1 statutory limit, Burgess pointed out.

Addition of a proposed 6-cent rate for the employee retirement fund and a 2-cent rate for city bond redemption would bring the total tax rate of the city to 88 cents, including the proposed 15-cent amount, or would hold the figure at this year's 73-cent level without it. The retirement and bond items do not come under the $1 limitation, which applies only to general operating taxes.

In his regular column, "Your City's Business," on Page 4 of this issue of the Recorder, Burgess points out that the city has, since 1944, cut its tax rate 13 per cent, while the combined taxes of other local and county jurisdictions have gone up 200 per cent.

Explaining his 15 cent additional tax plan, Burgess writes, "I think it is unsound not to make at least some current contribution to major capital outlay."

Administrative Zoning Change To Be Studied

Action to lower the percentage of land that can be covered with buildings in the city's famed administrative and professional zone was suggested this week.

The city council, at the urging of Mayor Charles P. Burgess, directed the planning commission to study a change in city zoning laws that would reduce allowable building coverage in the C-1 zone from the present 40 per cent to 30 per cent.

Burgess pointed out that experience has shown the present limit does not leave enough property to provide both adequate offstreet parking and adequate landscaping as envisioned when the present law was set up.

The city of Palo Alto, Burgess said, is now planning a similar zone with the 30 per cent limitation.

City Administrative Assistant John R. Johnson said that Allstate Insurance company has decided reluctantly to cut into lawn area surrounding their western regional offices in Linfield Oaks to provide more room for employee parking.

Wanted in New Orleans:

FBI Nabs Murder Suspect Here; Subject of Nationwide Manhunt

Rudolph Stevenson, nabbed here Tuesday, yesterday appeared before US Commissioner Joseph Karesh and was ordered held without bail. He is to reappear for hearing Friday on the charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on the charge of murder, FBI officers said yesterday afternoon.

* * *

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and local police arrested a nationally-sought murder suspect in Menlo Park Tuesday afternoon.

The suspect, Rudolph Stevenson, 28, formerly of New Orleans, has been employed as a used car lot attendant in this city for the past several weeks. He was arrested at 5:30 p. m. after an FBI agent and Atherton Police Chief Leroy Hubbard trailed his car from Atherton south to El Camino Real and Roble avenue.

Stevenson, indicted by an Orleans Parish (county) grand jury on Feb. 11 of this year on charges of the murder of Henry Ratliff on Sept. 18, 1954, was to be arraigned before a United States commissioner yesterday afternoon.

William M. Whelan, special agent in charge of the bureau's San Francisco offices, said the suspect will probably be returned to New Orleans to face trial. The FBI has been seeking him on the additional charge of "unlawful flight to avoid prosecution."

The FBI entered the case April 19, Whelan said, and evidence indicated he might be in this area.

It was learned the man had been living in Palo Alto, and had been "keeping company" with a woman employed as a domestic in Atherton.

EMPLOYED HERE

The fact that he had been employed by a Menlo Park used car lot operator was also ascertained.

Tuesday afternoon an unidentified agent of the San Francisco office came south to enlist the aid of local officers in making the arrest. He called on Chief Hubbard, and the two started south to contact Menlo Park officers, and if necessary, Palo Alto officers.

RUDOLPH STEVENSON

Driving onto El Camino Real, Chief Hubbard and the FBI agent spotted Stevenson driving a late model sedan south on the highway. They followed it south, checking identification, before closing in.

Menlo Park Police Lieutenant Tony DeOcampo was later told of the arrest.

Local police had seen the man in town, he said, but had not been aware that he was nationally-sought.

The arrest occurred within 100 yards of the Recorder office, but newspaper staffers weren't aware of it either.

IRA BONDE

Ira Bonde Expected To Be Successor

Menlo Park's city council Tuesday night lost one of its long-time members when the resignation of Arthur Cobbledick was accepted with regret.

Mayor Charles P. Burgess has indicated that Ira Bonde, currently chairman of the city planning commission, will be nominated as his successor. Appointments or replacement councilmen are made by the mayor, subject to the approval of the city council.

Cobbledick explained in a letter to Mayor Charles P. Burgess and his fellow councilmen that he has purchased a home "in a neighboring community outside of Menlo Park which necessitates my resignation." He plans to move to Palo Alto in about a month, he said.

A resident of Menlo Park since 1946, Cobbledick, a landscape architect, was appointed to the city planning commission in the fall of 1950 and to the city council in August, 1951. He won election to his council seat in April, 1954.

He has resided at 1038 Oakland avenue with his wife Grace and their two sons, David, 18, now serving with the Coast Guard, and Bruce, 14, who would have entered Menlo-Atherton High school as a freshman in the fall.

Commenting on the resignation, Burgess said to Cobbledick, long the council's staunchest champion of city beautification, "You have contributed many ideas and have brought a type of thinking that has molded many of our decisions. We hate to lose you."

'SATISFACTION'

In his letter, Cobbledick said, in part:

"It is a source of satisfaction to have had even a small part in the development of this attractive community . . .

"We are not moving far and I am sure my interest and appreciation of Menlo Park will continue. It has long been my feeling that as the development of Menlo Park presses toward its boundaries we should broaden our thinking beyond the artificial boundaries of city and county and make the larger community in which we all reside, a better place to live."

Professionally, Cobbledick has handled landscaping at Menlo-Atherton High school, the Palo Alto city hall and schools in the Ravenswood district. He is now working on landscaping for schools in Mountain View, Sunnyvale and Cupertino.

Bonde, who has been active in civic affairs since annexation of the Willows area, now resides with his wife and family at 370 Nova lane. He has been on the planning commission for about four years.

Prior to annexation of his home area, Bonde was active for many years as a member of the North Palo Alto Residents' association, and was one of the strongest supporters of annexation of that area to Menlo Park.

Fire Does Damage To One of Area's Oldest Residences

One of Menlo Park's oldest family residences, the Patrick Maloney home which until three years ago stood facing Santa Cruz avenue opposite Doyle street, was severely damaged by fire yesterday afternoon.

Menlo Park Fire District firemen are investigating cause of the blaze which resulted in an estimated $7500 damage.

The building, an estimated 75 years old, was moved to Alameda de las Pulgas and Valparaiso avenue three years ago to make room for commercial development. It was discovered to be in flames at 2:01 p.m. by firemen at Menlo Park district station 4, across the street.

Three on-duty members of the staff fought the blaze alone for several minutes, until additional equipment and manpower could be summoned from station 6 in downtown Menlo Park.

The building was unoccupied. An apartment into which the down stairs has been converted being vacated last Sunday, firemen said. The blaze was discovered in the building's upper story, and was confined there although water used seeped downstairs also.

'HOUSE IN TOWN'

Patrick Maloney, the building's first owner, was one of five brothers who moved to this area in the 1860's. After several years of farming, he decided to move his growing family to the hamlet of Menlo Park, and had the house built. It was one of the first facing Santa Cruz avenue.

In time, the family came to include 11 children, the last of whom, Miss Mary Maloney, lives with a niece in Palo Alto. Miss Maloney maintained the dwelling until an illness in 1949 forced her to leave the home she had known since a little girl, and the street which had evolved from a country lane to a modern business thoroughfare.

Patrick Maloney's children included, besides Miss Maloney, Mrs. Katherine Clochier, Mrs. Margaret Cullen, Mrs. John Morey and six boys: John, Tom, Billy, Connie, Jim and Frank Maloney.

An Increase of $14,666:

Atherton Adopts Bigger Town Budget, But No Tax Rate Hike Is Expected

A proposed budget of $170,644 for the fiscal year of 1955-56 was approved by the Atherton town council Monday night. The figure represents an increase of $14,666 over last year, according to Town Clerk W. Howard Boren, but "no necessity is seen for a tax increase in view of preliminary assessment figures." The tax rate is now 48 cents per $100 assesed valuation.

Largest capital outlay figure is $91,379, taged for the purpose of "protection to persons and property." $41,135 is proposed for "streets," while "general government costs" are figured at $25,430.

Other items on the proposed budget include "sanitation and promotion of cleanliness," set at $3200, and "miscellaneous-including retirement costs" at $9500.

The budget increase over last year was the result of "the needed addition of one officer in the police department, the purchase of new radio equipment and the cost of receiving radio service from Menlo Park instead of the county sheriff's office." Also, "the raise in salaries and wages accounts for a portion of the increase."

It was further reported to the council Monday night by the superintendent of streets that weed abatement for the current fiscal year amounted to $1900, the figure to be sent to the county controller's office for tax assessment purposes.

Approval of a request for a use permit by Menlo School and College was deferred, pending further study by the board. The college has applied for permission to purchase a six-acre parcel of land now a part of the Gilmore property adjacent to Alejandra avenue near El Camino Real.

If purchased, the land is to be used for an athletic field, according to school officials. Further study of the request was decided necesary after Councilman Henry N. Kuechler Jr. for more information concerning the school's immediate plans for the property.

In other action Monday night the council accepted Richfield Oil corporation's low bid of 21.8 cents per gallon of ethyl gasoline for the coming fiscal year. The company will provide gas for the town's public vehicles.

A use permit was granted Menlo Park Elementary School district for a small storage room to be constructed near Encinal school's multi-purpose room.

Councilmen also adopted two new ordinances, the first to provide additional parking space for Atherton residents near the town's railway depot, the other prohibiting tow trucks and photographers from gathering at the scenes of highway accidents.

Final maps of subdivisions were approved also. Both the Jessup orchard map of 269 Atherton avenue, and one of 36 Fairview avenue met with the approval of the council.

Two variance requests were granted, while one was refused. Request for variance on the Linke property on Fletcher drive was approved as was one of Ed Topin at 66 Atherton avenue. A variance request by Leo J. Simon for property at 149 Selby lane was refused on the advice of the planning commission.

The council also signified its willingness to annex a one-acre lot adjacent to the Walsh road heights subdivision.

Sequoia Trustees To Discuss Budget Wednesday

Sequoia High School District trustees are to meet at 8 p. m. next Wednesday night, Aug. 3 at the Sequoia high school library in Redwood City to discuss the district's proposed $2,881,779 budget for the 1955-56 school year.

Details of the district's budget, up $122,000 from last year, are published in the legal notices of this week's issue of the Recorder.

Library Board 'Re-Activated'

Two appointments by Mayor Charles P. Burgess, confirmed by the city council Tuesday night, brought the Menlo Park board of library trustees back to operating strength this week, although one vacancy, that of former chairman Jack Peak, still remains to be filled.

Dr. S. W. Chan, 751 Live Oak avenue, was re-appointed. Previous indications had been that Chan did not wish to accept reappointment when his term expired several weeks ago. Councilman George S. Ford, however, informed the council he had spoken to Chan and secured his assurance that he would be glad to serve again.

Mrs. Evelyn Bennett, 170 Felton drive, was named to the board to replace Mrs. Herman V. Yeager, who previously had indicated she would have to resign as of Aug. 1 because of an expected move outside of the city. Mrs. Bennett, also proposed by Ford, is librarian at Menlo School and college.

Peak resigned from the board several weeks ago when he was transferred to Pakistan by Pan American Airways. Other members of the board are Mrs. Lee M. Greenleaf and Warren H. Natwick.

Water Company 'Neutral':

Jaycees Here Launch All-Out Effort To Press for Fluoridation of Water

Menlo-Atherton Junior Chamber of Commerce will get all cost figures and will investigate legal procedures which must be followed, as next moves in getting a proposal to flouridate the area's water supply on the ballot.

This was decided at a meeting of the group's board of directors Monday night.

The gathering, held at the conference room of Allstate Insurance company's offices at 321 Middlefield road, also featured a declaration by officers of the California Water Service company to the effect that that agency is "completely neutral' 'insofar as the flouridation issue is concerned.

If a majority of customers of the utilities company desire it, CWS vice president Carl Mau told the Jaycees, the company will be happy to install suitable metering machinery. A cost engineer who accompanied Mau to the meeting said that he could prepare figures as to cost of such machinery and the cost of flourides themselves within the next two weeks.

The water service company representatives also pointed out that the state public utilities commission has proved cooperative in authorizing rate increases to cover the costs of installation and servicing of flouridation machinery.

Meanwhile, while cost figures are being accumulated, the local Jaycees will explore methods whereby the flouridation measure can be put on a ballot.

Whether or not such a ballot would cover the entire area, or just the portion serviced by CWS, was also problematical. A portion of Menlo Park is serviced by the Menlo Park municipal water department and another portion is supplied by the City of Palo Alto.

The meeting was chairmanned by Burt Blackwell, president of the Jaycee's board of directors. Besides Mau, CWS representatives present included District Manager A. L. Stolp.

Members of the Junior Chambers' health committee, headed by Dr. Norman McFate of Menlo Park, were also present.

'Public Education' Seen as C. of C. Need

A "public education program" to inform the public at large as to the functions of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce was proposed this week.

The proposal was made Tuesday morning at the C of C's regular directors' meeting.

Director Ed Zwierlein said that it was his feeling such a program would help citizens and C of C members at large to appreciate the value of the Chamber, and also to be able to take advantage of the services which it offers.

High-Speed Crash Kills One, Injures 4 At Congested Willow-Bayshore Corner

The most congested intersection in the county, Willow road and Bayshore highway, became the scene early Tuesday morning of a fatal two-car accident. Ervin Kuhl Jr., 26, of Grass Valley, was killed and four others were injured at 2:58 a. m. when one of the two southbound cars in which they were riding rammed the rear of the other.

Among the injured were Russell Hintz, 23, of 72 Manle avenue, Atherton, driver of the fatal car. He was taken to Palo Alto hospital and treated for head and chest injuries. Others injured included Eugene Kenneth Peglow, 21, of Redwood City, driver of the second car, and Norma Piccoli, 22, and Jack Piccoli, both of Redwood City. They were treated for minor injuries at Palo Alto hospital.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the car in which Hintz and Kuhl were riding was travelling at a speed of "at least 80 miles an hour" when it struck the rear of the Peglow car which had slowed for a red light at the Willow road intersection.

Norma Piccoli and Jack Piccoli were passengers in the car driven by Peglow. Both cars were demolished by the crash in which one struck a signal light pole, putting out the lights.

Kuhl was dead upon arrival at Palo Alto hospital. Jack and Norma Piccoli were released after being treated for minor injuries.

Sheriff's deputy Sergeant James White, who observed the accident, reported that he had seen the second car speeding south and gave chase.

He attributed the accident to the inability of the second car to slow down soon enough for the stop light. White radioed for an ambulance and administered first aid at the scene.

The intersection was scene, only two and a half hours earlier, of another accident which injured five. At 12:30 a. m., cars driven by Yen Lee, 34, of Mountain View, and Henry Dorsey, 33, of 1924 Alberni street, East Palo Alto, were involved in a less serious accident, according to highway patrolmen.

Funeral services for Ervin Kuhl Jr. are pending at Redwood chapel in Redwood City. Interment is planned for Golden Gate National cemetery in San Bruno.

Tuesday morning's accident occurred within the city limits of Menlo Park, but will not affect the city's traffic safety record, Police Chief George Potter said yesterday.

He explained that the Bayshore-Willow road intersection is in a "freeway" and is patrolled exclusively by the state highway patrol. The city has already agreed to the closing of certain streets in the area—an agreement made on the basis that the freeway is state property while the streets are city-owned.

New Scoutmaster Sought by 151

Willow Boy Scout Troop 151 is seeking a new Scoutmaster.

William H. Thormahlen, who has served the troop for the past two years, is resigning, due to press of business obligations.

Roland Schoch of 619 Bay road, Menlo Park, who is committee chairman, is asking that any man interested in taking over a "working" troop of seven years standing contact him at DA 2-4377.

Troop 151 was organized seven years ago by its first Scoutmaster Harry Caplan. The East Palo Alto Lions club is its sponsor.

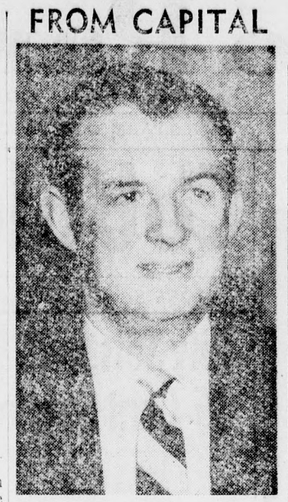
GETS SILVER AWARD

Mrs. Bertha N. Wells, 1901 Menalto avenue, Menlo Park, recently won a sterling silver honor emblem by The Reader's Digest, in recognition of outstanding service as a subscription representative of the magazine.

FROM CAPITAL



TO BE HONORED at a luncheon tomorrow at Wendell B. Barnes, national administrator of the small business administration in Washington, currently in this area to speak at the annual conference of the Stanford Graduate School of Business Administration. Edward L. Turkington of Atherton is regional administrator for the small business administration. Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce is cooperating in the efforts to make the luncheon event a success. It will be presented at Bob's on Broadway in Burlingame.

Professor Morrison Laid to Rest After Heart Attack

Private funeral services were held Tuesday for Stanley Morrison, 63, professor of law at Stanford university, who died of a heart attack July 25. A professor during the past 31 years at the university, he had resided with his wife, Carroll, at 127 Alta Vista drive in Atherton.

He is survived also by two sons, Peter of San Francisco and Stephen of Beverly Hills. His father is Frank Pierce Morrison of Redlands. A sister, Mrs. Amy Morrison Phillips of Redlands, and two brothers, William of Redlands, and Laurence Stillman of West Hartford, Conn., also survive.

Professor Morrison, a native of Alameda, Calif., began his Stanford tenure as a lecturer in law in 1924. In 1929 he was made full professor and, except for a three-year leave of absence as a member of a Los Angeles law firm (1942-45), he served continuously at the university.

Professor Morrison was graduated from Yale university in 1911, from the Harvard law school in 1919, and served as law secretary to the late Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. He was admitted to the California state bar in 1920, and during the next three years was associated with the San Francisco law firm of McCutchen, Olney, Manon and Greene.

Professor Morrison was a member of the Advisory Committee, Harvard Research Committee, Harvard Research in International Law; also of the American Bar Association, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Psi Upsilon and the Bohemian Club.

Funeral services were conducted at the Holy Trinity Episcopal church in Menlo Park, followed by private interment.

CE Convention Trophy On Display in Redwood

A trophy won by the Santa Clara District Christian Endeavor Union at the recent State Convention in Pasadena will be displayed in Redwood City Saturday. The event is a district swim party at the Redwood City Recreation Pool. This will be followed by a box supper at the First Christian Church, where the trophy will be on display.

While a large delegation from this area saw the President's Trophy when it was presented, this is the first time the entire district has had a chance to see it. The trophy was presented for taking first place in the state flag race for registrations to the convention.

Fun (?) Department:

Three NFO Youngsters Have Great Time —Being Bad—with Sunday Pyrotechnics

Two No. Fair Oaks boys and the younger sister of one of them were bad little kids Sunday.

Before they ended a spree of a couple of hours' duration, Menlo Park Fire District firemen and sheriff's officers were looking for them. Before the evening was out, county juvenile authorities and their parents were also in one the case.

It all started at about 3 p.m. when the boys—one 11 years old, another 12 year old — took some matches and some "gopher bombs" from Sim's grocery at Middlefield road and Fifth avenue.

The 11-year-old's litle sister tagged along to se the fun. Firemen didn't get her age.

The youngsters then set off the gopher bombs, and observed the colorful flames and fiendish smell.

They ignited a pile of rubbish in the rear of the Fifth avenue grocery.

Then they took their matches and comic books to the porch of Garfield school, burned more of the matches in a fine pyrotechnic display and set the books afire.

FIREMEN CALLED

Within the next hour, Menlo Park Fire District firemen were called to put out grass fires at Middlefield road and Fifth avenue, Third avenue, and Park avenue.

Apparently satisfied, the youngsers retired.

The firemen didn't though.

They prowled the area.

They interviewed possible witnesses.

They located one of the boys. He told.

So the trio was taken to the sheriff's office and questioned further.

One of the boys, it developed, had set another fire, a few weeks ago, in the vicinity of the Redwood City railroad station. He also admitted picking up a wallet containing $11, at the scene of an accident which occurred several weeks ago near Crystal Springs.

High time, sheriff's officers thought, that the parents of the children should discuss all this with juvenile authorities.

So the matter was turned over to the latter.

Firemen and sheriff's officers hope this will solve everything.

'Insurance Ratemaking' Is Kiwanis Subject

"Insurance Ratemaking Made Easy" was the topic developed by Bradley J. Palmer at the Menlo Park Kiwanis club Tuesday noon at its regular meeting at Ramor Oaks. Joseph M. Roberts was program chairman.

Palmer is a veteran of 15 years in the insurance business and is presently the Pacific department agency superintendent for the Fireman's Fund group. He holds a chartered property and casualty underwriter certificate, and is vice president of the Insurance Forum of San Francisco.

RAVENSWOOD ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DISTRICT showed an increase of 14 per cent in student population during 1954-55, according to a report from the San Mateo County board of education department.

Manslaughter Case Brings Honor To County Sheriff

San Mateo county's sheriff Earl Whitmore is to be cited for the "continuously maintained high standard of police work" of his department, and radio listeners will be given a rundown of the Melvina Chisman death case in Menlo Park, on Aug. 25.

Announcement of the honors to Whitmore and the radio time devoted to the local case of only a few months ago was made this week by officers of the Mutual Broadcasting system. The citation and the Chisman case will be features of the network's Aug. 25 "Official Detective" show.

Whitmore will not appear on the show himself. But a gold watch, as a testimonial, is to be forwarded to him, broadcasting company officials said.

The Chisman case of earlier this year saw the arrest of a suspect within a few hours after the body of Mrs. Melvina Chisman, 39, was found on Sandhill road. The suspect confessed a few days later and was subsequently convicted on charges of manslaughter. He is now in jail.

Whitmore has been sheriff of San Mateo county for the past five years. He succeeded long-time sheriff James J. McGrath in the office.

Hawaii was organized as a territory in 1900.

Metallurgist and Chemist Join SRI

(SRI)—Charles E. Lapple, former associate professor of chemical engineering at Ohio State university, and Rudolf H. Thielemann, former development metallurgist for Pratt and Whitney aircraft, have joined the chemical and metallurgical enginering section of Stanford Research Institute's physical sciences division.

Mr. Lapple, as a senior scientist, will organize, coordinate and dirtct research activities in the fields of fine-particle technology and chemical engineering.

He is a specialist in dust and fume collection, in abatement of atmospheric pollution, particle sizing and the handling of fluids. He has published many articles in the journals of these fields.

Mr. Thielmann, as senior metallurgical engineer, will coordinate and supervise research in metallurgy projects at SRI.

A specialist in such fields as high temperature alloys, stress, titanium, nuclear reactor metallurgy and others, he worked ten years with the aircraft firm at East Hartford, Conn.

Troops 222, 223 Camp at Ranch

Troop 223 had an overnight campout at the Burns ranch near San Mateo county Memorial park last weekend. Due to a late change of plans the overnight was open to all troop members instead of just patrol leaders and troop officers. The 11 Scouts who attended were Ken Ackles, Don Cameron, John Duniway, Jeff Duvall, Carl Eagle, Ron Enomoto, Jean Erreca, Bruce Hammermann, John Parish, Rudy Sefcik, and Nels Westman.

William Enomoto, Milt Spiro, Walter Westman, and Sam Eagle, scoutmaster, also attended. After the Scout swim at Burgess pool on July 6, the last of three swims sponsored by Troop 107, the troops will have a hot dog roast and campfire at Scout Haven. Awards will be given which were achieved at Camp Pomponio, the area Boy Scout camp.

Planners Study Subdivision Of Larger Lots

Whether or not lots in one o Menlo Park's few remaining "20,000-square-foot" residential zone —the area fronting on Hermos way — should be subdivided wa taken under study by the city plan ning commission Monday night.

The planners agreed to study th matter after two residents, in ir dividual actions, requested tha their own individual lots be re-cut They cited difficulty in maintain ing the larger parcels and pleade that "hardships" were created.

Planners, after discussing th matter at some length, agreed th matter should be studied but fo the area as a whole rather tha for individual lots.

Property owners requesting re subdivisions were Mrs. F. S. Ream 875 Hermosa way and R. H. Boyer whose property is to the rear o the Ream residence.

They argued that, with such large lots, older homes are "almost certain" to become neglected, as far as maintenance is concerned, in time. This, they said, resulted in an inevitable deterioration of property values in surrounding areas.

They pointed out that the lots in their present size are so large that prospective buyers are discouraged.

This has resulted, they said, in a falling of property values in th area: prospective buyers are apparently willing to pay more for smaller parcels elsewhere in Menlo Park.

FROWNS

Commissioner William O'Donnell told the applicants that the commission "frowns on" the re zoning of individual lots. This doe not preclude, however, the study or the needs of areas as a whole

He said the study would probably be a long one, and suggested that residents would have to wait at least two months before receiving definite word of the planners' decision.

The matter will be reviewed during future informal meetings of the planners.

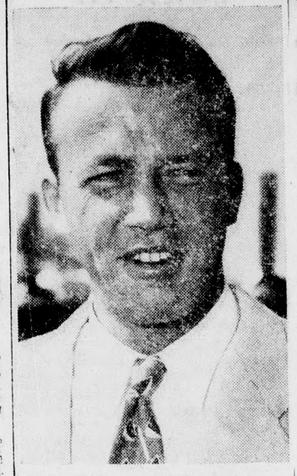
Woman Fined $50 On Theft Charge

Mrs. Eddie Mae Earls Jones, 33 year-old Menlo Park woman arrested July 13 on charges of petty theft, was released Friday after being found guilty of attempting to steal a package of bacon from the Hamilton market, 735 Hamilton avenue. She was fined $50.

The woman, who lives at 831 Hamilton avenue, was jailed after store employees detected her in the act of stuffing the bacon into her pocketbook.

Alaska was organized as a territory in 1912.

OVERSEAS



TO HONG KONG: William Cowden, 3 Helen place, Menlo Park, will leave soon for Hong Kong to assume the post of station operations manager for the Pacific-Alaska Division of Pan American World Airways at that aerial cross roads. Cowden, who is leaving a similar post for PAA at the San Francisco International Airport, was a well-known Stanford University athlete, playing with the Cardinal basketball team which won the national championship in 1942. He was stationed in Shanghai in May, 1949, and was aboard the last Clipper flight from that city just before the Chinese Communists took over.

Office Building Is Approved

Plans for a new, two-story professional office building facing University avenue were okayed by the city planning commission this week.

The building, to be constructed just north of the Forsyth clinic, will have parking adjoining that of the Menlo Park Presbyterian church. Church-goers may use parking near the professional building on Sunday, and patrons of the professional offices may use the parking of the church on weekdays.

Owner of the building, which will have space for 10 offices, including both medical and dental specialists and other professional men, is Phil N. Allen of 1025 Cambridge avenue.

Mrs. Hammond Leaves $289,666

An 81-year-old Menlo Park woman who lived in a modest home at 845 Harvard avenue prior to her death Jan. 7, left an estate of $289,666, according to an inventory filed last week in San Mateo county Superior court.

The woman was Mrs. Abbie Montell Hammond, whose will provides that the residue of the estate, after taxes, will be divided equally among her stepson, Douglas Montell of Sacramento; Stanford university; the University of California and Union college of Albany, New York. The grants to colleges are to be used for medical scholarships.

All personal belongings and large holdings of stock are to be divided between Montell and a niece, Maud Harron of Long Beach. The two have been named executor and executrix of her estate.

Using the Want Ad Section

Local Folk Will Be Finding Treasure—in Cash and Goods—Today

Before today is over, many a resident of the Menlo Park, Atherton, Woodside, East Palo Alto area will have a fistful of cash, and a similar number will have found items they wanted at bargain prices.

All these happy persons will have accomplished their aims through the combined classified sections of the Menlo Park Recorder, the Mid-Peninsula Buy Word and the Ravenswood Post.

This steadily growing Want Ad section — reaching more than 19,000 homes in the immediate area — last week sold, among other things, a fish tank with more than 50 fish for $20, a piano and bench for $150, a baby bed for $20 four maternity suits, and an electric stove for $125.

And this week, how about you? Do you want a stone marten scarf, a duplex home, a walking lawn sprinkler, a griffon puppy, or a 15th house full of fuchsias? You'll find them all among this week's Want Ads.

But you'd better call early! More and more users of the Want Ads are learning they could have sold their unwanted items 20 and 30 times over. And the early caller usually takes the prize.

If you have a white elephant somewhere about the house, why not turn it into cash and help out some one who is looking for such an article at the same time? The cost, to send your message into more than 19,000 nearby homes—close enough for quick, easy response—is only 35 cents a line (70 cents minimum).

To place your Want Ad, phone DA 3-6118 before noon Tuesday. Ask for Mrs. Banks; she will be glad to help you plan your ad.

Scouts Advance in Rank At Pomponio

A large number of advancements in rank as well as completions of merit badge requirements have been recorded during the second and third sessions at Camp Pomponio, word from the San Mateo county Boy Scout council's camp indicated this week.

Recent campers in the wilds of southern San Mateo county include members of Menlo Park Scout troops 139 and 107. Several members of each troop have been among those working toward advancement.

Following are some of the ranks achieved:

Troop 139, sponsored by St. Raymond's church, James Guerin, scoutmaster:

Police Seek Youths From CYA Camp

Area police were keeping a sharp lookout for Dwayne Butterfield, 18, one of two young men who last week decamped from a California Youth Authority camp at Ben Lomon din Santa Cruz county.

Butterfield, whose home address is 1129 Willow road, Menlo Park, was originally jailed by local police after being captured in an attempted service station burglary last winter.

Missing at the same time as the local boy was Eugene Roe, also 18, of Palo Alto. CYA authorities speculate that the two left together, since they have been close friends at the camp.

As We See It:

THANK YOU, ARTHUR

It was a big hole left in our Menlo Park government Tuesday night when Arthur Cobbledick stepped down from the city council seat he has occupied for four years.

Not one to speak out on every topic, Arthur Cobbledick commanded attention with every utterance he made. His thinking always has been based firmly on principles of justice, humanity and esthetic values. Where such considerations were involved, he has shown himself adamant and above pressure.

In one of his last actions as a councilman this week, Cobbledick said, "We are just starting to realize that esthetic values are very real values."

For this growing realization in Menlo Park, Arthur Cobbledick can take much credit. To him we owe much of the beauty of our city that has been preserved or increased during these last few years of hectic expansion.

—————o—————

I. E.: A LIBRARY

Perhaps it is an example of the growing appreciation of esthetic values, of which Arthur Cobbledick has spoken and for which he has fought, that our Mayor Burgess now proposes a special 15-cent tax rate for city capital improvements.

It is understood that high on the list of probable uses for such a fund stands construction of an adequate municipal library building. Here is an obvious admission by officialdom that things of the mind and spirit have monetary worth.

Through recent years, this city has displayed notable efficiency and economy in reducing taxes 13 per cent in a period when the combination of other local and county tax rates has gone up 200 per cent. Such strict regard for the pennies and nickels, considerate as it has been of the citizen's purse, is indicative, also, of ruthless adherence to "necessities" and elimination of everything that could not show a direct and "practical" return.

We incline to think that with such "practicality" we have been impractical.

We agree with Cobbledick that "esthetic values are very real values." In overlooking such considerations, we may have reduced our cash, "practical" worth.

It is the things that God and thoughtful men have bestowed on this community that make it what it is: the most desirable living community — and collaterally, the highest in property values — on the Peninsula. It is these assets that have drawn here the fine type of resident we enjoy and such outstanding organizations as Stanford Research Institute and the firms that occupy our professional-administrative zone (again, a practical, tax-wise development).

Now, through our "practical" municipal "efficiency," we find Menlo Park offering such residents — such world-leading minds — the opportunity to patronize a small, crowded and completely inadequate county branch library or to go over to Palo Alto, at an extra non-resident fee, to find books.

There are other facilities, too, that this city should provide and enjoy: a community center building for group meetings, a youth center, a better little theater, fields for such activities as Little League baseball, area parks, and a better street system for easier traffic circulation.

Like good schools, such things cost money, but the lack of them often costs more in property values than the tax dollars necessary to obtain them.

We are fortunate that efficiency and economy have put our city in position where it can afford such things "of the spirit" without undue strain.

Mouse Makes:

THE FUR FLY

Walter the Weathermouse Charlestoned in. He was wearing a raccoon-skin coat, a beaver hat, carrying a pennant advertising the Princeton Tigers and keeping time by whistling an old tune titled "If You Knew What the Gnu Knew."

He stopped his forward progress in the middle of the floor, and broke into an archaic dance form known as The Bear. Still whistling the same tune.

"We know what you're up to," we said. "You are setting the stage to tell an animal story."

"Not exactly," quoth the rodent. "I was just going to tell about the sausage-maker, who made frankfurters that were half pork, and half sawdust."

"We'll bite," we said. "Why?"

"Because, in times like this, it's hard to make both ends meat."

MP Postal Worker Aids Reshuffle

John D. Tuttle of Menlo Park is one of several peninsula residents currently taking part in making the US postoffice department's reorganization program one which is showing results in greater efficiency and economy, it was announced from regional operations headquarters in San Francisco.

Tuttle, who was for many years assistant postmaster in Menlo Park, was last year transferred to San Francisco, where he is assistant district manager.

He is working with other postal officers in San Francisco and on the Peninsula to decentralize and streamline postal operations.

The program allows local postmasters to discuss general needs and problems with headquarters in San Francisco, rather than refer matters requiring "top level" decisions to Washington.

Auto Area Painted At Menlo-Atherton

Sequoia High School District crews late last week were busy at Menlo-Atherton high school, repainting stripes, pedestrian crosswalks, and other pavement markings on the school grounds.

Crossings of Middlefield road at Ravenswood avenue and Oak Grove avenue were also repainted. Workers painted halfway across the thoroughfare at a time, in order to reduce the amount of interference with through traffic.

On the school grounds themselves, white stripes down the middle streets were also repainted, as were bus loading zones, "no parking" zones, and other details.

Raymond Murphy Is Belmont Engineer

Raymond F. Murphy, 29, of Menlo Park was last week selected as city engineer of Belmont, succeeding the late Robert L. Tilley. A salary of $100 a month was set as stipend for the job.

Murphy is a partner in the Redwood City engineering firm of Murphy and Hastings.

Belmont Mayor Ildo Rossellini termed the selection "tentative" until the city council can agree on a permanent successor for Tilley, who died two weeks ago.

POSSIBLE ROUTE FOR NEW TRAFFIC ARTERY

CROSS-TOWN TRAFFIC KEY—Shown is one possible routing of a link between Middle avenue and Alma street, opposite the east end of Middle avenue. If such a roadway, less than a block long, could be built, it might well not only halve the amount of traffic which currently must use Ravenswood avenue crossing of the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, but would also provide a better link with a major street heading west through the city than any now in existence. City officials are studying the possibility, although there are indications that state public utilities commissioners would look with disfavor on any additional railroad grade crossings on the Peninsula. Note also two spur tracks which leave the main line tracks in the vicinity of the crossing. These, according to City Councilman Vaile Andrus, would prove "a problem in practical railroading." Park area at right is Burgess park, around which traffic would have to be routed after crossing the tracks. —Recorder photo

Your New Neighbors...

Four families of recent newcomers to the Menlo Park area are reported through the Menlo Park-Atherton Board of Realtors.

Moving from San Mateo this week to their new home at 965 Berkeley avenue are Mr. and Mrs. Willard M. Hansen and their daughter, according to James A. Pierce, Realtor, of Tower Realty and Investment company. Hansen is manager of the Northern California Mortgage Loan office of the Prudential Life Insurance company here. Their daughter will be a senior at Stanford university next year.

* * *

Recently settled in their new home at 321 Claire place are Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Jordan and their five children, reports the office of Floyd Lowe. Jordan is general commercial supervisor for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in San Francisco. The Jordan's children are Joyann, 12, Paul, 9, Dick, 8, Mike, 5, and Cathy, 17 months. The family previously resided in Los Angeles.

* * *

Mrs. Maria R. Warner last month moved from Redwood City to her new home at 1324 American way, according to Grover C. Moore, Realtor. Mrs. Warner is chief checker at the new Menlo Park Safeway store on El Camino Real.

* * *

From San Mateo are the new occupants of the home at 204 Durham street, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Newman, it is reported through Floyd Lowe's office. Newman is associated with the California Pacific Title company in San Mateo.

Mittelstadt Named GOP Group Delegate

John Mittelstadt of Menlo Park was recently elected the Menlo-Atherton Young Republicans' delegate to the San Mateo county executive board of Young Republicans.

He was elected at a meeting which also saw the group vote to back President Eisenhower's federal roads program; the local group voted to have its membership send letters to the California congressional delegation urging support of the measure.

'Consumer Credit' Is Rotary Topic

"Consumer Credit" was discussed before the Menlo Park Rotary club yesterday noon, at the group's regular luncheon meeting. Speaker was Gilbert Byrn, an authority on the subject.

The Menlo Park Rotary club meets at 12:15 p. m. every Wednesday, at the Fraternal meeting hall, 645 Roble avenue.

25 Years Ago:

Candidate Rolph Was Speaker Here

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

July 25, 1930:

"Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, and candidate for election as Governor of the State of California at the eelction next month will speak in Menlo Park next Friday morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made this morning . . .

"While no definite announcement has been made as to the exact point at which the San Francisco Mayor will deliver his talk, it is stated on good authority that he will probably seak as the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and the State Highway."

Your City's Business:

City's Proposed Budget 'In Line' But Has No Capital Outlay Item

By MAYOR CHAS. P. BURGESS

The budget presented to the council by the city manager is in line with recent past financial policies of the city. Estimated revenue of $486,745 falls $13,523 short of meeting proposed expenditures of $519,268. However, this deficiency merely appropriates a carryover surplus due to last year's revenues exceeding the estimate by $8863, while expenditures were held $31,838 below the budget.

The overall tax rate for the city is to remain unchanged at 73 cents per $100, as an increase of one cent for general fund purposes is offset by a one cent decrease in our tax for bond interest and redemption.

There is one major shortcoming in our budget, in my opinion, and that is it is basically only an operating budget, in which capital outlay is limited largely to equipment items and replacement of existing facilities (Nothing is allowed for major capital improvements, library, community center building, grade crossing separations, etc.) that we so badly need.

The only important exception to the foregoing is our gasoline tax budget, in which by state law at least 60 per cent of our allocation must be used for improvement of major streets as contrasted with maintenance. But this 60 per cent amounts only to about $38,400 per annum.

The sound and conservative manner of providing capital improvements is through current budget appropriations to the extent feasible without placing an excessive tax burden on the citizens.

To the extent that current taxation is not feasible for needed improvements, then the council should go to the people to ask approval for the pledging of future taxes to support a bond issue for the improvements.

But I think it is unsound not to make at least some current contribution to major capital outlay.

The City of Menlo Park has over a period of years succeeded in gradually reducing its tax rate even in terms of 1940 assessed valuation basis. That is, not only have we cut the tax rate from its 1944-45 high of $1.256 per $100 to 73 ce nts, but we have cut the tax rate even when it has been adjusted for the 50 per cent across-the-board increase in basis of assessed valuation made by the county assessor in 1952-53.

Adjusting for this change in valuation basis our present tax rate of 73 cents becomes $1.095 in terms of the 1940 basis of valuation, or some 16 cents below our 1944-45 rate.

Now let us take the tax rates combined of the county, school districts and special districts in 1944-45 of $2.957 in the Menlo Park School District. This compares with a total of $5.906 in 1954-55, e quivalent to $8.859 in terms of 1940 valuation basis, an increase of 200 per cent. These rates are going to be increased further this year.

In contrast to these, the city rate has gone down 13 per cent in the period.

This is, of course, an outstanding record, for our city fiscal problems are not markedly different from those of other local governments in our area.

If our tax rate instead had increased over 1944-45 moderately to say 88 cents currently, equivalent to $1.32 in 1940 valuation, it would still be an outstanding record, for the 200 per cent increase of other taxing jurisdictions would compare with an increase of only 5 per cent for the city.

Yet that difference if placed annually in a capital outlay fund would represent a material step toward obtaining the physical facilities so much needed by our community. In 1955-56, some $41,000 would be raised by such a tax.

Planners Approve Lot Line Changes

Request of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Whitcomb of 800 Roble avenue to resubdivide their property, so that a new nursing home can be built there in units, was given a go-ahead by the Menlo Park planning commission this week.

The technical reworking of lot lines—necessary, since the proposed building project is to go ahead in sections—must have the approval of the city engineer.

In another action, the planners okayed a request of D. J. Kazakes for moving of a lot line between two parcels fronting on Kent place in Linfield Oaks. Number of lots was not changed by the action, which was requester to provide more useable building sites.

They also granted approval of a resubdivision request of Fred Gutt, for property facing Hamilton avenue; and okayed plans for an addition to metal shops of the Sunset heating and air conditioning company at 511 Hamilton avenue.

'Estates' Planned On Folger Land

Long-range plans for construction of about 400 estate-type homes on three-to-five acre sites on the 950 acres of the former Folger estate in Woodside were revealed last week by the Peninsula Development company of Sunnyvale, recent purchasers of the property.

Construction, however, is not slated to start for another two or three years according to Otis Blackington, superintendent of the estate and real estate broker.

Peter Folger, a member of the family which established the vast estate, still occupies the old family home at 3860 Portola road on the 30 acres of land which remain from the once 1600-acre estate.

Overflow Crowd at Red Cross 'Water Safety' Meet

By MRS. HIRAM BROILES

"Think of your own security first!"

These were the words of advice given members of the over-flow audience at the Menlo-Atherton high school pool Monday night by Ray Taft, bay area swim star and coach of the San Francisco Olympic club, who was one of the headliners on the evening's show sponsored by Sequoia chapter of the American Red Cross.

Contrary to all the rules of good sportsmanship—that admonition?

Not at all, according to Taft. "That is the first rule to follow in life-saving," he said. "The would-be rescuer is only endangering his own life and that of the drowning person as well, and very likely, too, of any life-guard who might try to take over, if he is not capable of effecting a rescue."

This was one of the safety rules emphasized by the group of experts who came to Menlo for the event undertaken by the local Red Cross chapter to supply some much-needed information for the private pool owners in the South county area who were specially invited guests for the occasion.

VARIED PROGRAM

Welcomed by Robert Durfee Jr., chapter chairman, the audience heard East Palo Alto attorney Lee C. Jordan Jr. describe the broad legal aspects of pool ownership—"the liability you incur as the result of being a pool owner," saw swimmers of championship caliber demonstrate "strokes you might study and why they are good;" watched rescue techniques by Taft with simple poolside equipment, which he said, "everyone should have;" participated in a class in artificial respiration in the latest back-pressure, arm-lift method by First Aid and Water Safety Instructor Frank Mehl of the San Francisco Chapter of the Red Cross, and enjoyed "The Gadabouts," a water ballet performed by National Junior Championship Synchronized Swim Team stars, Patricia Cronin and Miriam McDonald.

Jordan described the pool owner's responsibility as "that of an individual citizen and a human being who acts with reasonable care where there is forseeable danger, and as a reasonable and prudent man who would absolve himself from liability."

"Owners owe a duty to others who come upon the premises, whether they be business-invitees such as the milkman, or gratuitous licensees at your invitation, or the 'trespasser,' Jordan said "and it is your duty to inform as well as to inspect for all hidden dangers, especially where children are concerned."

Elementary forms of rescue techniques were demonstrated by Taft, using equipment he recommended should be kept in a central area beside every pool.

EQUIPMENT

These included the wide board, rubber-tipped bamboo poles, ring-tows and torpedo-buoys, and Taft did not minimize the importance of the branch of a tree, a towel, a bathrobe, a shirt or a broom, as auxiliary equipment. But the first rule in using any of the methods demonstrated, he pointed out, was to "think of your own security first!"

Menlo Park Fire Chief George B. Carter, accompanied by a group of his captains, instructed guests in the necessity for calling the fire department in their own residential areas as first step in an emergency and describing it as the duty of every citizen to know the emergency telephone numbers of fire, police, doctors and ambulance service.

Testing the alkaline and chlorine content of the swimming pool can be done by the pool owner himself without professional help, the audience was told by Taft, who demonstrated the use of a simple kit which pool owners which pool owners should have to guarantee general healthful condition of the water and cleanliness of the pool.

Ownership of an adequate First Aid Kit also was recommended as a necessary piece of pool equipment by Mehl.

OTHER EVENTS

In addition to the visiting swim stars who came down to Menlo Park for the event, were Mrs. Zada Taft, Miss Myra Thompson and Mrs. George Lassall. Miss Thora Johnson, coach of the synchronized swimming team, emceed the show with running narrative descriptive of all procedures demonstrated. Chapter First Aid and Water Safety Instructors assisted in the class in artificial respiration.

Uniformed volunteers of Sequoia chapter, on hand to assist during the evening at poolside, were Mrs. Eric Stanford and Mrs. John Breeden of Menlo Park; and Mrs. Ray Westman, Mrs. Roland Meyer, Mrs. James Stewart and Miss Susan Norris of Atherton. Mrs. Roland Bermejo, executive director of the chapter coordinated the event which was staged by the San Francisco chapter of the Red Cross under the direction of Jack Wallace, director of Safety Services.

Durfee, in closing, reminded the audience that the Red Cross solicit sinquiries on its First Aid and Water Safety Courses and would be glad to arrange similar demonstrations at the request of pool owners in the South county area.

Ruth Roehr Solos At Stanford Concert

Ruth Roehr of Menlo Park, San Francisco opera company soprano, was featured as guest soloist Tuesday night at a concert of the Stanford Symphony orchestra, presented at the auditorium, Memorial hall, on campus.

Miss Roehr sang two operatic arias by Mozart, from "The Aduction from the Seraglio" and "Cosi fan tutte."

Miss Roehr appeared at Stanford as the feminine lead in "The Rake's Progress" and also sang in "Dido and Aeneas" and "Falstaff," which have been among other recent musical productions on campus.

She also performed as featured soloist at a concert Sunday at the Sigmund Stern grove in San Francisco, presented by members of the San Francisco symphony orchestra.

Both concerts were conducted by Sandor Salgo, professor of music at Stanford university.

Parked Car Hit On Santa Cruz

An auto driven by William Joseph Collins, 18, of San Francisco, struck a parked car on Santa Cruz avenue near University drive Tuesday, Menlo Park police report. Damaged auto, which had to be towed away, was owned by John V. McKellip of Palo Alto.

Collins told police he had just made a right turn onto Santa Cruz from University, and was shifting gears when his auto swerved into the parked vehicle.

Backing Auto Hits Parked Car Here

An auto operated by Mrs. Evelyn Graham, 49, of 1431 Hill avenue Monday afternoon assertedly struck a parked car when the woman attempted to back from the driveway at her home, Menlo Park police were told.

The parked auto which was damaged belongs to Max Millsap, 27, of 703 16th avenue. He told police he had parked his car across the street while visiting friends.

Mrs. Graham and her husband, who was a passenger in the car, denied any knowledge of hitting the other vehicle, according to investigating officers.

Boy Wins Plaque In Road-E-O

Gerold Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher of 70 Edge road, Atherton and a student at Encinal school, has been awarded a plaque attesting to the fact that he was declared the winner in a recent bicycle safety road-e-o held at Burgess park.

The plaque was contributed by Allstate insurance company.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Burchin of Spencerville, Ohio and two brothers, Joseph and Stephen Baber, both of Lima, Ohio. He was the grandfather of eight and the great-grandfather of two.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the chapel of Tinney and sons, Palo Alto. The Elder R. C. McPherson of the Seventh Day Adventist church of Santa Rosa, officiated.

To Make Menlo Area Better:

Chamber Launches Program to Woo The Ladies into Community Action

The wives will be encouraged to aid the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce in the future, it was decided by Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce directors at their regular meeting Tuesday morning.

Meeting at the Chamber's new offices at 1436 El Camino Real, the C of C leaders discussed plans for a program of activities and promotions for the coming year. The membership will be canvassed.

According to President Robert Starkweather, directors were invited to submit their ideas for the coming year's program and suggest topics. It was agreed that a referendum to the membership should be made, asking suggestions and opinions on what projects are considered most important.

"The referendums will be mailed to the homes of members," Starkweather said, "because we are most anxious to have the opinions of wives of members, as well as of the members themselves."

He added that mailing lists are being changed, and the addresses will be to "Mr. and Mrs."

"We feel there is a great untapped source of potential here," said Starkweather in explaining the move.

"I feel," he continued, "that the welfare of Menlo Park is of even more immediate interest and significance to wives as to husbands."

He went on to explain that the interest and activity of the fair sex was not only most desirable but necessary to make the community a better, more progressive one and that the Chamber of Commerce was the logical vehicle to organize this interest.

The board also agreed to the placing of a sign along the full length of the building where C of C offices are now situated.

Giannotti to Head C of C Parking Panel

Al Giannotti was Tuesday morning appointed chairman of a Chamber of Commerce committee to work on a "parking and traffic circulation" plan for the city.

Announcing the appointment, C of C President Robert Starkweather said that Giannotti had not as yet selected members of his group. The new panel head has been conspicuously interested in the development of offstreet parking in downtown Menlo Park, as well as in other traffic and safety problems.

What actions Giannotti's committee will take are also to be formulated after the group meets.

Four from City Get SJS Degrees

Four Menlo Park residents—all specialists in education—will be among 315 on whom degrees will be conferred at summer session commencement exercises at San Jose State college Friday, Aug. 5.

The four include Mrs. Marjorie L. Bisio, AB in general elementary education; Raymond F. Cruikshank, MA in education; Jeannine E. Emard, AB in education and James E. Kerr, general secondary education credential.

The Commencement exercises will convene at 3:30 p. m. in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

Dr. Tully C. Knoles, chancellor of College of the Pacific, will be the commencement speaker. Dr. John Wahlquist, president of SJS, will confer the degrees.

New Collection at Stanford Gallery

STANFORD—An exhibition of 23 oil paintings "of lyric perfection" by Rex Slinkard, recently bequeathed to Stanford University by the late Florence A. Williams of Los Angeles, will open tomorrow at the Stanford Art gallery.

Miss Williams also bequeathed $30,000 to maintain the Slinkard collection and provide for its periodic exhibition, University officials said. The collection contains nearly all of Slinkard's work.

Burglars Take $1500 from Bayshore Bar

Redwood City police were this week investigating a burglary of the Glowworm, 3118 Bayshore highway in Friendly Acres, in which $1500 was reported missing by owners Frank McMann of Menlo Park and Don Zirilli of San Carlos.

The burglars, according to Zirilli, got into the bar by breaking the lock on the front door. They broke into cigaret machines, took all change in the place, and located the partners' cache of receipts of the night before.

Mrs. Zirilli discovered the burglary when she came to the bar to clean up, early Saturday. The partners, both of whom had worked the night before, had left at about 3 a. m.

Zirilli speculated that the break-in must have occurred at about 4 a. m.

German Expert on Hiller Staff

Dr. Gerhard J. Sissingh, authority on aircraft stabilization and rotary wing design, has joined the staff of Hiller Helicopters' advanced research division, according to an announcement made this week by Robert Wagner, chief engineer.

Dr. Sissingh received his doctorate at the Technical University at Hannover, Germany, and subsequently became Chief of Aerodynamics and Testing for Flettner Aircraft, Berlin. Later, he was appointed Chief of Helicopter Research for the Aerodynamics Research Institute (AVA) in Gottengen, Germany. After World War II he was appointed a research scientist for the Royal Aircraft Establishment, Farnborough, England.

Most recently, before joining Hiller, Dr. Sissingh headed Research and Development with Kellett Aircraft Corporation, New Jersey.

Service Station To Be Constructed

Plans for a new service station, to be erected on the site of an existing one at Oak Grove avenue and El Camino Real, were okayed by the Menlo Park planning commission this week.

The planners gave their approval after viewing plans submitted by the General Petroleum corporation, which currently operates a station at the corner. The existing building, to be replaced, is on the northeast corner of the intersection.

In another action which indicates changes along El Camino, the commissioners granted an okay to Frank Walt motors of Palo Alto, granting permission to operate a used car lot on Stanford property, facing the highway's east side, near Menlo Park's southern city limits.

'ANIMAL FAIR' AT PENINSULA SCHOOL

THE ANIMALS WALKED TWO BY TWO in parade last week at Peninsula summer school, as the elephant's cardboard tube trunk nodded aimably with the camel's shoebox head, the llama and yak trailed companionably behind, accompanied by a fierce African witch doctor, and assorted other animals. Six and seven year olds put to good use the assortment of boxes gathered from Menlo merchants to create their colorful poster-painted menageries. Craft teacher Anne Woolfolk Wright inspired and guided the project. Among children participating are those pictured above, from left to right: Joanna Beam, Kathy Silber, Alan Moore, John Houghton, Jessica Block, Billy Marcus, Brian Agron, Susan Abbott, Elaine Bregman, Holly St. John, Kirk Arnold, John Bloom.

Hillview Students Listed Among CARE Contributors

Hillview school of Menlo Park was included in a list of 115 Northern California schools which contributed to CARE, the overseas relief agency, during the 1954-55 school year, the CARE regional office in San Francisco announced this week.

The seventh grade students at the local school contributed $15 for CARE packages to aid those in want overseas. The total contribution from Northern California schools was $3150.

"These gifts from California school children offer not only temporary relief, but also hope and encouragement to needy people in other lands," CARE Regional Director Desa Cucuk said, in commending the students for their support of CARE during the past year.

"Each CARE package is an expression of American goodwill, promoting international understanding on an individual and personal basis," Miss Cucuk continued.

"Local committees should be very proud of their students who so generously gave their weekly allowances and proceeds from fund raising projects as their contribution toward a world of freedom and peace."

Student donations supported CARE's "Food Crusade" program which moves an average of 100 pounds of government surplus food overseas for $1. The youngsters also sent hand tools, plows and books to underdeveloped areas of the world through CARE's Self Help program. The major portions of the student donations went to Korea, India and Viet Nam.

GIRL, 18, RECOVERS

Colleen Palison, 18, of 173 Stanford avenue is recovering this week from injuries sustained in an accident July 17 on Old La Honda road. Miss Palison, who was dismissed, after treatment of minor injuries, at Sequoia hospital, was a passenger in an auto driven by Herbert D. O'Neal, 21, of San Francisco.

Area Youth, Man In 'American'

Two Menlo Park-Atherton residents are this week featured in pictures and articles in American magazine, national publication out today. They are Professor Frederic Spiegelberg, 431 Middle court and Steve Allen, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Allen of 87 Rosewood drive, Atherton.

Dr. Spiegelberg achieved note recently with his complete set of Tibetan ghost traps; Steve, in 1954, constructed a color television set.

In a "' teen talent" article, American magazine reviews briefly the history of Steve's interest in electronics, starting with his construction of a galvanometer at the age of 4.

Steve has since received several honors, and has himself been a television guest on account of his most recent and complicated construction job.

Dr. Spiegelberg, a Stanford expert on Indian civilization, first became acquainted with the ghost traps when doing research along the Tibetan border. His set of 14 is considered complete and is one of the few complete sets in the western world.

Sanitary District Hires New Operator

Richard Randall, Redwood City marine engineer, has been hired by the Menlo Park Sanitary District as a sewage treatment plant operator, replacing Arthur Carte, who resigned last week to take a position as chief plant operator at Milpitas.

Randall, who is 45, was top man on a recently-established eligibility list. He will take over Carte's shift, which include both day and night hours.

A NEW BABY BOY arrived at Community hospital in San Mateo July 15 to join the Jewel Reese family of 1056 Crane street.

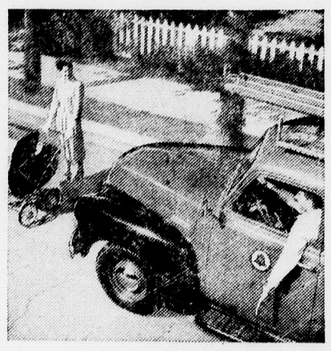
WHAT'S DOING

J. E. Gordon, your Telephone Manager in Menlo Park

How telephone drivers guard your safety



Protecting your safety and that of your family is a big part of every telephone driver's job. And to prepare our drivers for this responsibility, we give each a special course in what we call defensive driving. This teaches telephone people to drive in such a way as to prevent accidents no matter what others may do. And it really pays off. For example, telephone drivers covered more than 80 million miles last year without a single fatal accident. Naturally, careful driving like this helps make the streets safer for everyone. And by helping us keep skilled people on the job, it enables us to work faster and more efficiently . . . to bring you good telephone service. Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

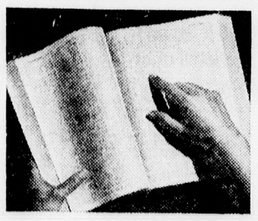
How to help people get in touch with you faster



If the telephone number at your house isn't now listed under your name, it easily can be. In fact, everyone in the family — Mom, the youngsters, resident "in-laws", and so on — can have a separate listing. By having your own name in the phone book, you make it easier for people to get in touch with you. It can be the difference between getting or missing important calls. And you can have your own listing at small cost. So why not call us at your telephone business office and talk it over.

Plant Service Clerk

Miss Kathy Moroney is shown verifying a group of orders that make up a days work for the outside installation forces in Menlo Park. This is just one of the many different jobs Kathy must find time for in the course of her days duties. Kathy began work for The Pacific Telephone Company soon after her graduation from Menlo-Atherton High School two years ago. Since that time she has been trained to maintain and keep on a current basis the many reports necessary for computing the office payroll, abeyance files, and even training new employees in the work that she has now mastered.

BRUNO HANGS 'EM UP

BRUNO BANDUCCI . . . EX-49ER STAR

The Onlooker:

Banducci Retires; Rejects 3 Offers

By DENNIS ANDERSON

Bruno Banducci has decided to retire from professional football.

The ex-Stanford star and last remaining charter member of the San Francisco 49ers until he was released two weeks ago told the Recorder from his Atherton home yesterday that unless something real godo came up in the next few days, he "guessed" he was "through with the pro game."

An all-pro guard and captain of the 49ers for the past two years, Banducci was given his release and made a free agent two weeks ago when he and 49er President Tony Morabito were unable to agree on terms. Banducci said they were about $1000 apart.

Since then a reconciliation was hinted at when Banducci was noted speaking "in serious tones" with Morabito at the club's training camp in Moraga. "Nothing came of the talks," however, Banducci admitted.

Shortly after his release, Banducci told the Recorder that he would like to stay in professional football and if he got a good enough offer he might sign with an eastern club. At that time he said that he was "ready" and "could play about two more seasons."

Since then he has had three calls from eastern clubs. "All the deals they offered were pretty good," Banducci admitted, "but I'm not too sure I want to leave this area."

Banducci lives with his wife and three children, aged 12, 10 and eight months on Encinal avenue in Atherton.

As for his future, the grid star will continue working as an automobile salesman in Burlingame for the time being, a position he has held in the off-season in recent years. He figures he will clear about $3000 less by not playing this year.

He would like to keep in close contact with the game, he said, possibly as a coach or scout if such an opportunity arose.

All About Chuck

Former Sequoia high Cherokees, going through their yearbooks of 1950-54, are apt to wonder what's become of some of the faces they used to know as familiar sights around the Redwood City campus.

One of them, that of Chuck Thompson, swimming coach, is still to be seen in the area. Chuck recently opened a swim school in Palo Alto where youngsters—from the ages of 14 months up, yet—are learning the finer points of natation.

Pet Shows Set For Playgrounds Next Week

Next week, it'll be pet show time at five playgrounds in Menlo Park.

As in previous years, the event—one of the weekly "specials" at the playgrounds — is tuned to youthful interests. There are divisions for cats, dogs, reptiles and other unique creatures.

This year, by way of a change, though, there'll be no divisions for insects—unless they're trained insects. Mrs. Gayle Thompson, in charge of plans for the affairs, explains that directors are getting tired of having earwigs introduced as "pets."

Pet shows will be held at Belle Haven, Flood and Willow school playgrounds on Aug. 3; they'll be held on Aug. 5 at Nealon park and Oak Knoll school playground.

Fancy cats and dogs are as welcome as any, Mrs. Thompson explains, but they won't get much of a break in the judging. Both felines and canines will be judged on the basis of length of ears and tails, smallest, largest and most unusual in color.

The best dressed pet will also receive an award, as will the owner of the best-decorated cart or cage.

Summer Orchestras Tell Rehearsals

The Menlo Park recreation summer orchestras will hold an open rehearsal Aug. 4 to show parents and friends the results of their six weeks of rehearsal.

This third summer of the music school has been highly successful with a total of enrollment of 100 children from Menlo Park, Redwood City, Palo Alto and the Stanford campus. The beginners orchestra has 54 members and the advanced orchestra 43 members with daily attendance running around 60 per cent due to vacations and other factors. There has also been a small string class meeting twice weekly.

On the night of the open rehearsal, the groups will show the audience the rehearsal procedure which includes scale drill and other factors contributing to the building of a group. The beginners orchestra will play three numbers.

The advanced orchestra is made up of a very capable group of youngsters and has done considerable sight reading. Among the numbers it will play are "March," by St. Luc; "Scene and Dance," from Tschaikowsky's "Swan Lake" and a Strauss waltz.

There will also be a group of numbers by a string ensemble.

The open rehearsal will be held at Central school auditorium beginning at 7:30 p. m. and lasting one hour.

Judd-Wright Rally Gets Co-Title In American League Playoff Tilt

Seybold and Ferguson real estate and Judd and Wright, after battling neck-and-neck throughout the Menlo-Atherton American Little League season, remained just that way—deadlocked—Tuesday in a special playoff game to determine the championship.

There will be no further playoffs and the pennant race will go into the books as a tie, according to league president, C. F. Flinn.

The two teams tied for the championship in both the first and second half of play this season. Tuesday's game was scheduled as a title playoff and they played to a 6-6 time limit tie.

Seybold apparently had the pennant in its grasp with a 6-1 lead as it entered the last inning, but Judd and Wright came up with a five run rally on three hits after two were out to knot it up for good.

Singles by Robert McCook and Cubby Welch, a double by Bob Bull and four walks off Mike Flinn were the ingredients in the rally.

Seybold had piled up its lead on splurges in the second, third and fourth innings. They got two in the second, one on Bucky Clark's home run in the third and three on three hits, including Clark's double and a two-run single by Roger Williams, in the fourth.

Williams also had a double for the realtors. Welch led an eight-hit Judd and Wright attack with two singles. He and Davey Moore pitched in the win.

S-F Tramples Sport Shop By 11-6 Count

Seybold and Ferguson Little Leaguers put the crown on their campaign to get into the American League's co-championship last Friday, smashing a Shreve and Pryce Sports shop team 11-6, principally with a fifth inning rally which saw six of their runners cross the plate.

Winning pitcher Roger Williams gave up seven hits, but even at that he showed up better than loser Steve Swift. Swift allowed 10 hits.

The Realtors got their campaign under way in the fourth, when Jim Jorgenson hit a home run. Earlier scoring saw Mike Flinn and John DeGracia hit doubles in the third.

In the fifth, however, the Seybold-Ferguson campaigners combined three hits, including a triple by Ken Hadden, with enough errors to get six runs.

Though getting only half the number of tallies that their rivals did, the sports shoppers had a few high moments, also. Two of these occurred when Barnes and Shepherd hit doubles to liven things up.

Judd and Wright Routs S-P, 19-7, In American Loop

Judd and Wright assured itself a tie place in American League contention at Little League park here Tuesday, working over a hapless Shreve and Pryce sport shop team by a 19-7 score to get the co-championship.

Things might have looked a little different, had pitcher Joe Morey of the losers got things under control the first time he got on the mound. As it was he gave up 11 runs in the first inning and although his teammates got almost one run for every tally shown by Judd and Wright, there wasn't much doubt as to the outcome.

Winning pitcher was Dave Moore.

The game didn't see much in the way of spectacular hitting. There were no home runs and no triples, although Moore, Rick Wright, Jim Johnson and Cubby Welch all got doubles for the winners.

The Realtors, who started strong and who were tied in their league at the end of the first half, found themselves hamstrung at various points as key members of the team left on vacation.

Shreve and Pryce, on the other hand, had more than its share of unlucky breaks as the season went along.

Lions Win Game From Kiwanis

The Lions took a game from the last place Kiwanis team by beating them by the score of 11-2. The winning pitcher was Clenny for the Lions and the loser was Miller. The Lions had 11 runs on only two hits while the Kiwanis had three hits.

In the error department the Lions had one and the Kiwanis had three mis-cues.

The Lions had seven runs in the fifth on eight walks. The unlucky Kiwanis put across a single run in the first and second innings.

They scored all their runs on walks and on fielders choices. Dave Miller threw a darn good game but his team didn't give him much support in the lop-sided game. The Kiwanis have been always losing the games in the last few innings in all of the games.

Van de Sande Scores Upset Win Over Leaders

Van de Sande broke a six game losing streak Saturday, beating the lads from Judd & Wright by the score of 5-2. Cubby Welch was the leading hitter for both teams with a good 3-3 including a double.

Dave Moore also got a double for the losers. Their battery was Welch pitching and Dave Moore catching.

For the Clothiers, it was Bob Kinsley pitching and Des Conyers catching. Kinsley got 2-4 .

Van de Sande came through with two runs in the last inning to win the game. The Clothiers out-hit the Judd & Wright team and also out-did them in the runs department.

In the sixth inning Judd & Wright had a rally and were snuffed out by a spectacular throw by the left fielder, Paul White.

Realtors Wrap Up National Title

Finishing their regular season in the style that got them into the championship playoffs representing the National League, Lowe's Realtors Saturday trounced the Kiwanians 5-1.

The Realtors started pulling away from their rivals at the start, getting two runs on three hits given up by losing pitcher Sisernoz in the first. They got three more runs in the fourth, when a series of walks and four errors combined in their favor.

The losers got one hit; their run was scored on the single error allowed by the Realtors during the game.

Jim Hannay was the winning pitcher.

After Peninsula Win:

Southern Division Babe Ruth Stars Play in Stockton Tourney Saturday

The scene of Babe Ruth baseball league All-Star tournament play shifts to Stockton this week where the Peninsula league Southern division stars will represent this area in the Northern California finals.

Coach Howard Bertlesen's Southern division club ,who gained entrance into the Northern California tourney by winning last weekend's area tournament Sunken diamond, plays its opening round game Saturday at 3 p.m. against the winner of a tournament held in Westwood.

The Stockton tournament schedule:

Saturday at 9 a.m., the winners of tourneys held in Sacramento and Stockton last weekend play. Saturday at 11 a.m., winners of play held at Vacaville and Salinas play.

Saturday at 3 p.m. the Peninsula Southern Division Stars, winners of the local tournament, play the Westwood tournament winner. At 5 p.m. the winners of tourneys held in Oakland and Siskiyou last week meet.

The second round and championship games will be played Sunday.

At 10 a.m. Sunday the winners of the 9 and 11 a.m. games Saturday meet. At 12:30 p.m. Sunday, almost immediately after the first game, the winners of the 3 and 5 p.m. games Saturday play.

Should the Peninsula Southern Stars win in their first round tilt Saturday, they will play the winner of the Oakland-Siskiyou game at 12:30 Sunday.

Winners of the two semi-final games on Sunday return the same afternoon at 4 o'clock to play off for the Northern California championship.

From there play advances to Pasadena the following weekend and regional play among several western states.

The Peninsula league was also represented in last year's Northern California playoffs when the Live Oak (now Northern) division got into the championship game and was beaten by Oakland, 6-5, at Salinas.

Oakland was later eliminated in regional play at Pasadena.

Bertelsen is hoping that he can get as good pitching this weekend at Stockton as he did in the area finals last Saturday at Sunken Diamond at Stanford.

Then, his two-ace 15-year-olds from Palo Alto Sport Shop matched one-hit shutouts to secure the area title. Lefty Hal Turner stopped the Peninsula Northern division stars cold in the morning game, 1-0, and right hander Don Powell whitewashed the Sunnyvale league National di-

Tournament play has caused several changes in the Peninsula Babe Ruth Baseball League schedule for the remainder of the season. Probably only one of the regularly scheduled games this Saturday will be played according to plan.

The Menlo Greys and Lowe Realtors, bith Northern division teams whose players are no longer involved in All Star play, will cros sbats at Flood park at 10 a.m.

The other four games will be rescheduled by the managers involved.

Saturday's play ends the regular season in the league, but postponements because of All-Star play and other postponements fro mearlier in the season will lengthen the campaign at least one more week.

Last Wednesday:

Lawson Lowe's Hit Scores Run in 1-0 Ruth Win

Lawson Lowe's single scored Mike Mirsky with two out in the second inning and returned Lowe realtors 1-0 victors over the Redwood City Knights of Columbus last Wednesday at Community park in Peninsula Babe Ruth baseball league action.

The victory kept Lowe's faint Northern division pennant hopes alive as it cut the Knight's league lead to 1½ games.

Cliff Gwartney's two hitter for Lowe's bested Bob Houweling's four hitter for the Knights. Bob Strawther, Mirsky, Gwartney and Lowe got the only hits for Lowe's. Houweling and Ray Casetta accounted for the two Knights hits.

Palo Alto Sport shop dumped Menlo Motors, 8-2, at Wilbur junior high to hang onto its half game lead in the Southern division and knock the Motormen out of a second place tie with Lowe's in the Northern sector.

Don Powell broke up the ballgame with a two-run, 400-foot home run in the sixth inning that started a six-run Sport shop rally and erased a 2-2 tie. Tommy Bridges worked a five-hitter, striking out 11, for the winners.

Jim Garibaldi of Menlo Motors allowed only four hits in losing. Lindy Guerra got three singles and Garibaldi the other two for the Motormen. Nine walks by Garibaldi hurt his own cause.

The Los Altos White Sox blasted the Menlo Blues, 11-2, to keep right on the heels of the Sport shop in the Southern race. Dick Turner worked a four-hitter and struck out 11 in the victory.

Larry Irwin tripled for the Blues while Dave Klock hit a three bagger for the Sox, who scored seven runs with the help of four walks in the first inning. The winners got seven hits off Dick Newman.

Couch builders walloped the Menlo Greys, 14-4, in the other game. The Greys led by 3-2 and 4-3 in the early innings but fell apart after Pitcher Roger Postlewaite pulled ligaments in his ankle sliding into third base in the third inning.

Postlewaite had hit two singles and driven in two runs before his injury. He will be out for the remainder of the season. John Potter got the other two Greys' hits off Jack Skinner and Dick Holden

John McWilliams singled twice. Holden tripled, Terry La Torre singled, doubled and tripled and Jerry Jones doubled and tripled twice to lead the 10-hit Couch attack.

All-Star Play Opens Tomorrow At Menlo-Atherton LL Ball Park

Midpeninsula Little League play reaches a climax this weekend when All-Star tournament play begins at the Menlo-Atherton Little League park.

Eight teams will participate in an area tournament at the local ball park tomorrow and Saturday. Two winners will advance to the Section 4 tournament at Palo Alto on Monday and 8uesday.

The schedule for the Menlo-Atherton tournament:

Friday—

11 a. m.—Los Altos National league vs. Palo Alto 49er league;

1 p. m.—Palo Alto Frontier league vs. Menlo-Atherton National league;

3 p. m.—Los Altos American league vs. Menlo-Atherton American league;

On Saturday the winner of the 3 p.m. game Friday plays the Palo Alto Pioneer league, which draws a bye in opening round play, at 2 p.m. and the winners of the 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. games Friday play at 4 p.m.

The two winners of Saturday's games move onto the section tourney at Palo Alto Little League park. Middlefield at Diss road in South Paly, Monday and Tuesday.

There they will run up against the two winners of a tournament being held in Campbell tomorrow and Saturday. Participants there are the San Jose American league, San Jose Lincoln Glen league, the Campbell league, Santa Clara league, San Jose Willow Glen league, Burbank league and Gilroy league.

One victor will emerge from the two-day affair at Palo Alto and will represent Section 4 at the District 4 finals to be staged at Tulare on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 5-6.

Menlo - Atherton teams have been drilling extensively all this week, the American leaguers at the Little League diamond and the National leaguers at Burgess field.

Coaches of both teams are confident but admit, according to tournament director Martin Christiansen, "Anything could happen in sudden death." One loss eliminates an All-Star team from further tournament competition.

They played a practice game with the National leaguers, managed by Max Schluter and coached by Larry Becker, yesterday. The two teams will not play each other in this tournament because of the schedule set-up, but could meet at Palo Alto if both win their games this weekend.

Both teams drew tough opponents in their first tournament games. The Palo Alto Frontier league is claimed by several Paly coaches to be the strongest of the three leagues there while the Los Altos American is the same club that eliminated Menlo-Atherton two years ago in a tournament here and is packed with power.

American league—John Curti lf, Bob Kinsley p, Cubby Welch ss, Bucky Clark 3b, Mike Flinn 1b, Bob Bull 2b, Dave Nelson rf, Davey Moore c, John De Gracia cf.

National league—Danny Partemi 3b, Lew Cryer 2b, Mike Cottrell ss, Phil Arnaudo 1b, Carl Goldman rf, Kent Bach c, Marty Christiansen lf, Tom Shea cf, Dave Miller p.

Miller is a huge, side-arming righthander whose cross-fire blinds half the hitters. Should the Nationals win Friday, Cryer will probably pitch the Saturday game. Arnaudo, Cryer or Jim Potestio of All American Market could be used in relief if necessary.

If the American leaguers win Friday, they plan to use Mike Flinn of Seybold and Ferguson in Saturday's game.

The American league will miss Ricky Wright, Judd and Wright's all-purpose 12-year-old who led the league's pitchers in won-lost percentage this year and was a 400 hitter. Wright left on vacation last week and had to miss the tourney as well as Judd and Wright's championship playoff with Seybold and Ferguson Tuesday.

Preuss Win Tightens Race In Softball

There is a new perspective on the standings of the Menlo Park Recreation Softball league. Preuss Pharmacy clobbered the previously unbeaten All-Stars 13-6 Tuesday night to throw the race into a tie and keep several other clubs in contention.

Among the clubs that were saved at least mathematical chances at the title by the Preuss win are Oaks Bar-B-Q and the Menlo Public Employees, who play in tonight's doubleheader.

Tonight's games at Nealon park:

7 p. m. — Oaks Bar-B-Q vs. Postoffice.

8:45 p. m.—Public Employees vs. St. Raymond's.

The All-Stars see their next action next Tuesday at 7 p. m. when they oppose the As. Oaks Bar-B-Q and GC Liquors tangle in the 8:45 game then.

League standings to date:

All-Stars (4-1), Preuss (4-1), GC Liquors (3-2), Postoffice (2-2), Oaks Bar-B-Q (1-2-1), Public Employees (1-2-1), St. Raymond's (1-3), The As (1-4).

Preuss slapped 20 hits off Gordy Brown and led all the way in Tuesday night's battle. They scored six runs in the first inning and led 9-0 when the All-Stars threatened with six of their own in the third.

Don Harrison blanked the former undisputed league-leaders from there on in, however, and Preuss kept adding more to their lead. Gallagher, Red Bishop and Scotty McKay led their attack with three hits each.

Vaughn Eshleman, Randy Randolf, Fromm, Degenhardt and Harrison all had two hits. Larry Becker was the only Preuss player to get just one hit, but that was a three-run home run in the third inning.

Morrowed homered and singled twice and Buck Sammis singled and doubled for the All-Stars.

GC Liquors dropped the As into the league cellar in the other game Tuesday by defeating them 9-6.

Larry Irwin, Babe Ruth Baseball leagut All-Star, broke up a 5-5 tie in the fourth inning when he led off with a line home run to left field.

Winning pitcher Charley Anderson had homered in the third for GC while Hawkinson hit a four-master in the third for the As.

Glenn Kovas doubled and singled and both Anderson and Irwin hit singles in addition to their home runs for the winners.

The All-Stars racked up their fourth straight victory in last Thursday night's action to give them an undefeated slate and a full game edge over Preuss Pharmacy.

Gordy Brown pitched a one-hitter, which was hardly necessary as his mates scored 18 times to trample St. Raymond's 18-3.

St. Raymond's chucker, Lew Jennings, gave up nine hits, but what really hurt him was 19 walks. The All-Stars scored four times in the first inning and left the bases loaded, got six more in the second, and added an additional seven in the fourth.

Gordon and Abruschi led them at the plate with two and three singles, respectively. Longest blows were a double by catcher Bradley and a triple by shortstop Knoblaugh.

Jennings got the only St. Raymond's hit, a single in the third inning. It came after Brown had walked three straight in a brief wild spell in the third.

The Menlo Public Employees lead most of the way in the other game but had to rally for four runs in the last half of the last inning to salvage a 14-14 time limit tie with Oaks Bar-B-Q.

The game will be replayed should its outcome have any affect on the final standings in regard to the championship, which is doubtful.

Oaks rallied from a 6-8 deficit with a six-run fourth inning and then added two more to assume a 14-10 lead going into the last half of the last.

Then the fun began. Paul Biernat walked two and gave up a double to Jack Hacker and N. DeCristoferi followed this with a game tying home run.

DeCristoferi led the Employees' batting attack with three hits while Jack Hacker, Jim Hacker McIntyre and B. DeCristoferi all got two.

Don Powell hit two doubles and a single for the Oaks. Mike Mirsky Bobby Wendell and Jerry Baker all hit twice.

Swim Slasses Signup Is Set By Red Cross

Two final sessions in the summer swim program sponsored by Sequoia chapter of the American Red Cross and the Sequoia high school district are slated to begin Aug. 1 and 15 at both Menlo-Atherton and Sequoia high school pools, Chapter Chairman Robert Durfee Jr. announces.

Sign-ups for these closing sessions are now being taken at the chapter house at 3540 Middlefield road in Menlo Park.

There are a limited number of vacancies in the remaining sessions and both children and adults who contemplate availing themselves of this opporaunity to learn to swim this summer, are urged to sign up at once.

Junior and senior lifesaving classes will start at the Menlo-Atherton pool on the above dates, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., if a sufficient number of registrations are received at the chapter to justify setting up the advanced classes.

The chapter reveals that 1525 enrollees have taken advantage of the Red Cross swim classes so far this summer.

Little House Member Presents SPA Art Show

By PATRICIA YOUNG

Donald Fry, a member of Little House and of the Palo Alto Art club, is currently presenting a one man show at the South Palo Alto branch library. His canvasses are well known not only on the Peninsula, but in Southern California and Washington, as well.

The present showing includes 26 canvasses, mostly landscapes. The artist has caught not only a wealth of beauty, but has captured a quiet nostalgia and pictured bits of today's realities that are eloquent of our yesteryears.

There is, for instance, the canvas, "Two Vets," showing two old submarine chasers moored side by side to a shabby dock. Their war worn uselessness is silently eloquent of breathless past adventures when men and nations waited on their every move.

There is the portrait of Fry's granddaughter, Sally Fry. Every detail of this canvas of a young girl and her violin, was planned by the artist.

The blue bowl on a bookstand the etching on the wall above, the delicate lavender tones of the lovely frock, even the soft beauty of polished violin wood—all be speak the artist who loves his subjects and his work.

Fry has more than an artist's appreciation of color and form. His paintings show a deep and loving interest in life itself. A child's delight in a yellow bowl, the farm blacksmith shoeing a patient horse, a golden hillside where the faint markings of flying hoofs are all that is left to tell a silent story of fleeing Scotch highland horses.

OTHER PICTURES

There is a roan mare suckling a golden colt in a sun-kissed meadow, a waterfall so real that one can almost hear its thunderous roar—and a picture of crowded houses anchored to a steep hillside where goats and dark skinned children play.

The dramatic colors of nature in pictures painted in Arizona bespeak the artist's love for the dramatic beauty of the unusual and the picturesque.

There is a lovely canvas of a glacier lake in the high Sierras, another of two shaggy, idle horses against a trim white fence, a lovely bit of contrast, and many others.

Fry was a student in the pioneer class at Stanford. Not until his retirement at the age of 62, did he indulge in the art of painting, but in the dozen or so years since, he has covered much ground and well over a hundred canvasses.

Fry is a member of our Little House here in Menlo Park and many of his pictures have delighted not only members, but visitors from all over the world. His very lifelike portrait of Robert Collyer will long be remembered by admirers of both men.

The paintings will be on display in the South Palo Alto library through Aug. 7.

Down to Earth:

Herbs Aren't Difficult to Grow; Can Add Variety, Special Interest to Garden

By TERRY LEE

Many gardeners shy away from growing herbs because they have a vague idea that they are difficult to raise or need a special plot. Actually, herbs can be tucked in anywhere there is room, reasonably good soil and, in most cases, full sun.

They are quite undemanding and generally free from disease. Herbs are quite unmysterious, and most of us are familiar with a long list: celery, chives, onion, parsley, horseradish, garlic, lavender, marigold, nasturtium, mint, mustard and even rose leaves.

An herb is defined as a soft wood plant (as opposed to the hard wood of trees and shrubs). Most herbs are grown mainly for fragrant foliage or aromatic seeds, but some have worthwhile flowers.

Gasplant, monkshood, hyssop, painted daisy, anchusa Blue Bird and borage have handsome flowers, and lavender and pinks have fragrance as well. Herbs thrive in any sunny, well-drained location.

Soil need not be rich, but should be alkaline (Menlo's is already) and somewhat sandy. Two herbs do better in part shade: mint and sweet woodruff. (which makes a glossy-leaved low ground cover under trees.)

Herbs can be started from seed, and August is the time to sow the seed in flats. However, usually three plants will provide plenty of fresh leaves, and plants can be bought from the nurseryman. Most herbs behave like perennials in this climate, and plants can also be had from root dicisions or cuttings.

Any small space by the kitchen should have some chives and parsley, which can be put in as small plants. I also like to sow a few seeds of garden cress to add to the salad bowl. Mint does well by my water faucet, but has to be contained by redwood boards boxed around the roots.

SPECIAL USES

In the garden, herbs can be planted as patches or used as edgings. Germandeh, hyssop, burnet, thyme and the annual sweet marjoram and basil will make attractive low hedges. The taller plants, dill, sage and tarragon form an effective background for a flower border. Bay leaves and rosemary come from large evergreen shrubs which can be used as foundation planting.

A strawberry barrel makes a wonderful container for herbs. Feathery fennel and dill remain as small plants, and marjoram and peppermint geranium will cascade down the sides in a pleasant way. Parsley and oregano do very well and chervil can even be started from seed. I like to crown the top with the scented geraniums or a few strawberry plants. This is a delightful thing to have by the kitchen door.

The selection of herbs for the garden depends on the space you have and your cooking preferences. Fresh herbs may be used in all recipes calling for dried herbs.

The leaves should be cut, crushed or minced to bring out the volatile oils. Use two scant teaspoons of fresh herb where ½ teaspoon of dried herb is called for. Herbs can be used to flavor meat, soups, beverages, jelly, custard and vegetables. A piece of rosemary is excellent in the cooking water of peas and soup, meat can be rubbed gently with oregano before roasting; marporam is always used with poultry and sausage and is good with all kinds of food; thyme has many uses, and basil is the secret of many a tomato dish.

Foods you are tired of may be changed by the addition of an herb: savory can be crushed and added to scrambled eggs; a leaf of lemon verbena can be minced in the bottom of a custard cup, or two tablespoons of minced fresh mint leaves added to the butter that coats a bunch of freshly cooked carrots.

GARDEN CALENDAR

As tall plants get taller (like corn, asters, zinnias, etc.) you can sometimes avoid having them lean or fall over by simply hilling the soil up around their roots enough to give them a firmer base.

vision Stars, 6-0, in the championship game in the afternoon.

Powell also figured prominently in the first game triumph for the Southern division. He got the first hit and scored the game's only run in the second inning.

He led off the frame by hitting a high infield fly that nobody handled and dropped between first base and the pitcher's mound for a single.

He then stole second and advanced to third after Terry Long's long fly fall to right field. Powell attempted to score on Don MacPhail's bouncer to third baseman Lynn Larson. Larson's throw to the plate was in time but Powell upset Catcher Dermit Houweling with a hard slide and the Northern division backstopper dropped the ball.

The South got four more scattered singles off Bob Anderson of Menlo Motors, all of which, unlike Powell's were good, clean base-hits. They never threatened again, however. Two runners were left stranded and two were cut down trying to steal.

Only hit off Turner was Jim Knecht's line drive single to open the first inning. Turner walked two men to fill the bases in that frame but got out of it by snaring one line drive and knocking down another. He got two assists and one put out in the inning.

The Menlo-Atherton high school track star settled down after that, allowing only four other men to reach first base during the game. He walked two and hit one with a pitched ball and one got on on the South's only error of the day. Catcher Bob Overman threw the latter baserunner out at second base, however.

Byron Tani was the batting star of the game, which was played in only 1:30, with two singles.

Slowballing Jerry Hicks of Sunnyvale threw a no-hitter at the Southern division for three and two-thirds innings of the second game, but was finally blasted off the box more because of very poor defensive support than because of Southern hitting.

Sunnyvale made seven infield errors in the game, and all six runs were unearned. Four of the miscues were on wide, hurried throws to first base and the other three on booted ground balls.

Don MacPhail drove in one run with a single in the two-run fourth and Dave Keith drove in one in the three-run fifth with a single. There was only one other hit for the winners, a single by Powell to start off the fifth.

Powell struck out eight, but walked six, compared to Turner's four strike outs and four walks in the morning contest. Only hit off Powell was a bad hop single by Catcher Lew Leonard in the second.

Bertelsen will go with almost the identical starting lineup this weekend as he used Saturday. Turner will pitch the first game and Powell the second if the team gets that far.

What makes one stock a better buy than another?

How do you decide which of two companies—both respected, both prosperous—you should invest in?

If you're smart you take at least two looks—one at the past, and another at the future.

About the past. Does the company have a history of steady growth? Has it paid dividends regularly? How capable has its management been?

About the future. Is there a chance that public demand for the company's product will fall off? Are these times that encourage the growth and profit of companies in their particular fields?

Let us help you dig out that information. Come in and ask any questions you want.

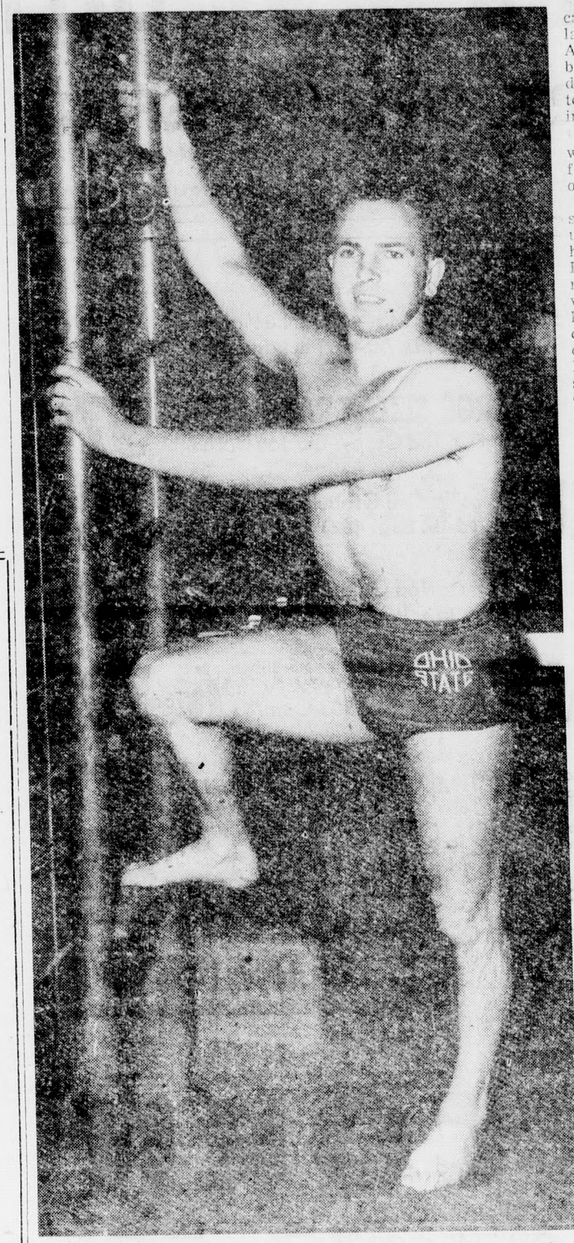
Don Harper Is New National Springboard Diving Champion



DON HARPER, of East Palo Alto, climbs to the top again in national diving competition, winning the championship for 3-meter springboard diving from Mexico's Joaquin Capilla, last Wednesday in Los Angeles in the National AAU Indoor-Outdoor swimming and diving meet. Don went on Saturday to place fourth in platform diving.

Once more East Palo Alto has cause to be proud of its youth, for last week Don Harper won the AAU National Outdoor Springboard championship in the 3-meter diving event and last Saturday took fourth place in platform diving.

Don's total points for the event were 597.85 as compared to defending champion Joaquin Capilla of Mexico's 594.05.

A graduate of Ravenswood school, Don began his gymnastics under Jack Farrell, who taught him trampoline. At Sequoia Union High school Don took up swimming and diving under Clyde Devine and began to set records in his junior and senior years. He continued to win many diving championships while attending Fullerton Junior College and again since he has become a student at Ohio State university. Numbered among his championships are national trampoline titles, as well.

Seen most recently in Ravenswood, Don was a diving performer, both straight and comedy, at the Ravenswood Recreation association's water show opening the community fiesta on June 18. Don has been supervising diving at Ravenswood community pool this summer and has been performing with the Ravenswood Jumping Jacks.

Not Too Late for Baseball Tryouts

Though their seasons are already under way, it's not too late to try out for the Menlo Park Recreation department's two 'teen-age baseball teams, Coach Frank Bettencourt reminded this week.

Boys may try out at regular practice sessions at Burgess field. The junior team (13 to 15 year olds) practices Monday through Friday from 1:30 to 4:30 and the senior team (16 and 17 year olds plus 18 year olds just graduated from high school) practices Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p. m.

Both teams play in the Peninsula Baseball League's Southern division. The juniors play Saturdays and the seniors Sundays.

As August 6 Creeps Up:

More Events Planned For Tally-Ho! Party

Two more outstanding events for August 6 have been announced this week by the Woodside-Atherton junior auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent home, who are sponsoring their annual Tally-Ho! horse show and party that date the Menlo Circus club.

A highlight of the horse show, open to the public, will be an exhibition of dressage by Solonel Hans Moeller of Atherton, who will ride Mrs. Franklin Downton's "Golden Arrow."

Col. Moeller, a former Austrian army officer, was trained in Vienna where the famed Lipizzan horses learn the tradition of dressage.

The second of the two events will be the sensational water review planned by Clyde Devine of "swimming school" fame.

Scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m. —shortly after the gates open for the evening—the show will feature diving exhibitions by Nan Compeau, Carolyn Corbelli and Liz Lemos, Far Western junior diving champions.

SPECIALTY NUMBER

Barbara Mardon, Pacific Northwest AAU champion, will perform a specialty diving number, while other exhibitions will be staged by:

Bob Heywood, Northwest section high school champion and Junior Olympic champions Mike and Tony Devine and Jack Leahy.

Also on hand will be the Aquabrats, the peninsula's youngest natators, ranging in age from 20 months to 3 years. A hilarious diving duo—the Gaughran brothers—will provide some rib-tickling comedy.

DON SHERWOOD

Making his appearance at master of ceremonies for the I. Magnin & company fashion show, as well as for the rest of the evening's entertainment, will be Don Sherwood, radio and TV star.

Other celebrities to appear are Al Williams of the Papagayo room to provide some local color, and Sherwood's singing combo, the "Three Sharps."

Jim Grady of KCBS will serve as announcer for both the afternoon (12:30 p. m.) and evening (7:45 p. m.) horseshow.

BOXHOLDERS

A partial list of boxholders for this event—the fifth to be held in conjunction with the annual party and a show which the American Horse Show association considers one of the finest for charity in the country — have been announced as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. William Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Sesnon, Mrs. Eli Wiel, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wegeforth, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Bassinger, Mr. and Mrs. John Galvin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elkus, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. William McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haas Jr., Judge and Mrs. Louis Goodman, Mrs. L. M. Giannini, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh David Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kuechler Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Ramsay and Andy McLaughlin Jr.

Senior Auxiliary Plans:

SOMETHING NEW

As a complete novelty in its usual program, the Senior auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent home will sponsor a luncheon and fashion show Monday, August 29, at the Sheraton-Palace hotel.

Especially for this benefit affair, Ransahoff's will preser/ Irene's collection of fashions for fall and winter of 1955-56.

Luncheon is to be served in Palm Court, and tickets may be obtained by calling the hotel or Mrs. William D. Pabst of Atherton at DA 3-3396 or Mrs. William E. Kratt of Atherton at DA 2-3077.

Marilyn Myers Chooses Fall Wedding Date

Marilyn Myers, whose engagement to Richard P. Weldon was announced earlier this year, has set October 29 as the date that she and her fiance will exchange marriage vows at St. Anne's chapel in Palo Alto.

Doris Callaghan of Hillsborough, a classmate from Dominican convent, will serve as Miss Myers' honor attendant.

The ceremony will precede a reception at the Atherton home of the bride-elect's father, Michael H. Myers. When the newlyweds complete their wedding trip, they plan to reside in Santa Maria where the prospective bridegroom practices law.

Miss Myers is a former student of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Dominican convent, and San Jose State college, affiliating with Alpha Phi sorority at the latter. Early this spring she and her father traveled down to Acapulco, returning via Arizona where the future bride's brother, Michael Jr. is a university student.

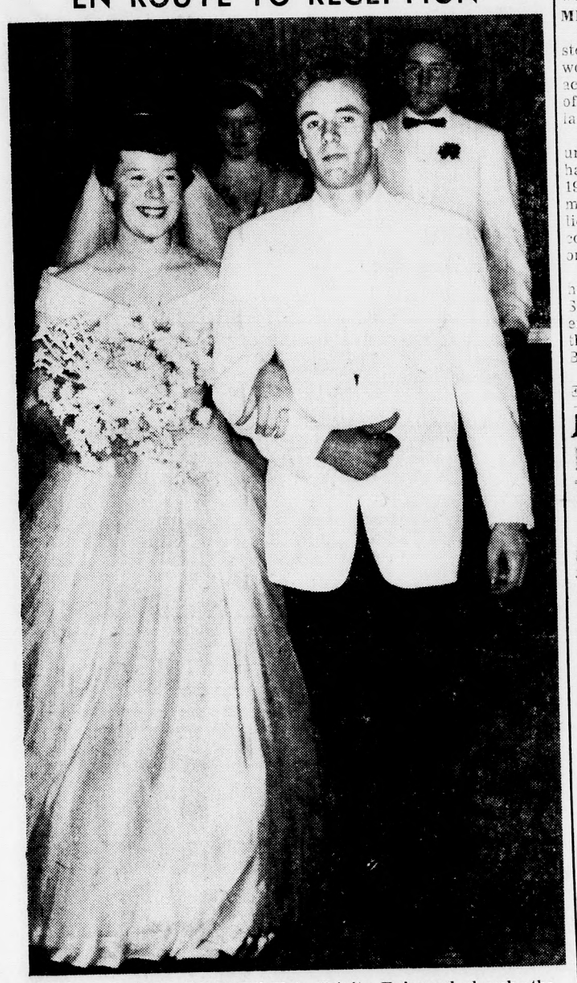
The future benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weldon of Santa Maria, was a Kappa Alpha while attending Stanford university, from where he earned both his degrees. Thomas Weldon Jr. is his only brother.

Localites Attend Opening Night

Monday—opening night of "Pajama Game"—was a special evening for the Andre Dubbs, who rendezvoused after the performance with his sister, dress designer Eleanor Green, and cousin, TV entertainer Doris Carr and her husband.

At Trader Vic's, where the party adjourned, the Dubbs ran into the Frank Hoopers, who agreed that the show was imply terrific.

EN ROUTE TO RECEPTION



LEAVING THE ALTAR of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, the justwed Mr. and Mrs. Roger Watson Stiles prepare to receive the more than 100 guests who attended their July 9 marriage. The bride, formerly Janet Anne Arnold, and her husband have since established their first home together in Redwood City.

Benefit for Servicemen's Center and 'Haven':

'Summer into Fall Fashions' Is Motif Selected For Monthly UVS Showing Tomorrow Night

MRS. CHARLES HITCHCOCK, model, and Mrs. David Harris, hostess chairman, pose in a summer garden preliminary to tomorrow night's "Summer Into Fall" fashion show to be staged by the Palo Alto UVS unit at Rickey's

—Recorder photo

"It Can't Possiby Be — Well Anyway It's Sneaking Up On Us Fast"—a wee bit long for a fashion show title, perhaps, but pretty appropo.

Cutting it down to "Summer into Fall Fashions" the United Voluntary Services' Palo Alto unit is sponsoring its traditional monthly style showing tomorrow night at Rickey's.

Proceeds from these events are used to maintain the Armed Forces center on Santa Cruz avenue and the "Haven" at the Veterans hospital. Open to the public, the curtain tomorrow is scheduled to rise at 8 p. m.

Models for the July show include Mrs. Charles Hitchcock, Miss Nancy Colobie and Miss Ger Owings, all of Menlo Park; Mrs Don Henderson of East Palo Alto; Mrs. John Gossett, Mrs. Chad McMills and Mrs. L. N. Peets of Palo Alto and Los Altos.

Menloite Mrs. David Harris is hostess chairman, assisted this month by Mrs. Norman Bourke of Menlo Park. Miss Sally Fairborn, Miss Roberta Tull and Mrs. Phillip Taylor.

Fleet Reserve Auxiliary 101 Is Active Group in This Area

An organization which up to now we haven't known the history or background of is Unit 101 Ladies' Auxiliary, Fleet Reserve association, which includes several members from this locale.

Instituted on July 30, 1947, the auxiliary is limited in membership to wives, brothers, sisters and daughters (not under 16 years) of members of the Fleet Reserve association, as well as widows of Fleet Reservists, Marine corps reservists and retired enlisted personnel of the navy and Marine corps.

MILESTONE

October, 1949, marked a milestone for the auxiliary when it won its first national award for activities under the chairmanship of Mrs. Everett Read, 925 Oak lane, Menlo Park.

Mrs. Read also hostessed the unit's first sewing group, which has continued since September, 1949, to work on layettes from material supplied by the Navy Relief society. Last year members contributed 3500 hours of sewing on their project.

During the past year the unit has adopted a ward at Agnews State hospital, and entertains patients there once a month under the chairmanship of Mrs. James Berry of East Palo Alto.

Besides Mrs. Berry, two other East Palo Altans are on the auxiliary's governing body — Mrs. Ralph Johnson serves as secretary and Mrs. Levon Hammond as a board member.

OTHER DONATIONS

Another special project carried on by the membership of 119 is an annual contribution to the local chapter of the March of Dimes and work at the Veterans hospital in Menlo Park.

First and foremost concern of the unit is the welfare of its members. Social activities are primarily family affairs which help bind together a group with common interest in military problems and privileges, and unite them for the protection of the latter.

In times of distress or good fortune, the ladies auxiliary stands ready to render what service it can to members, widows and orphans.

Joan Butler, Bill Feeley To Wed Sunday

Joan Butler and William Feeley, both long-time residents of Menlo Park, are making their final plans to go to Reno this weekend where they are to be married on Sunday.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Butler, is a graduate of Palo Alto high school. She continued her studies at San Jose State college, where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and is currently employed with the Bank of America in Palo Alto.

The son of Mrs. Thelma Feeley of Oak Grove avenue, Bill attended Central school and Sequoia high school, and was graduated from San Jose State college this spring—while on campus there, he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Hundred Mile Hike

Dr. and Mrs. S. Warren Hall have returned to their home in Menlo Park after a week's vacation of hiking, swimming and mountain climbing at Yosemite and Fallen Leaf lake, Lake Tahoe.

ATHERTONIAN SAILS FOR MUNICH

JOINS G.I. HUSBAND—Mrs. Charles M. (Carol) Denny Jr. sailed last month aboard the Holland-America line's flagship "Nieuw Absterdam" bound for Munich, Germany, to join her husband, who is stationed with the army there. Mrs. Denny, formerly of Inglewood lane, Atherton, will remain in Europe for a year and a half.

Next Week:

Primitive Camp Set for Area Girl Scouts

Primitive Patrol Encampment for 85 Senior and Intermediate Girl Scouts who have completed the seventh and eighth grades will be held August 1-5 inclusive at Huddart Park.

The announcement this week indicates that the venture, which affords participants an opportunity to practice their skills and to learn to meet and enjoy new girls in a camping situation, is being co-sponsored by the Sequoia area and North county Girl Scout councils.

Not only will the encampment extend the Scouts' horizons but it offers excellent preparation for the National Girl Scout Encampment to be held in Michigan next year.

'AMERICANA'

The theme of the national event will be "Americana." More than 5000 girls from all over the nation are expected to attend, with 8 of that number representing the Sequoia and North County areas.

The Huddart park primitive camp will comprise 5 troops, 4 containing 2 patrols each and one made up of 3. Each patrol, varying in size from 6 to 10 girls, is to be responsible for its own tent and all other equipment.

The patrols have registered for

Club Sponsors Teacher at Audubon Camp

Under sponsorship of the Woodside-Atherton Garden club, John W. Vincent, a teacher at Las Lomitas school, has attended this summer's two week course at the California Audubon camp in Sugar Bowl.

For the past six years, members of the Garden club have selected a teacher from either Woodside, Portola, Las Lomitas or Ladera schools to participate in the annual training program to acquaint youth leaders with nature study and other out-of-door activities.

Expenses for the series ahe paid in full by the local club.

Plans for a "French Market" to be staged Thursday, September 22, are already being formulated by the Woodside-Atherton group as a means for raising funds for their various projects.

The fall festival, open to all, will be given at the Atherton home of Mrs. Silas Palmer.

William Bonnifields Are Brand New Parents

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bonnifield of 2741 Fordham street are the proud parents of a new son, born July 19 at Sequoia hospital.

The infant, named William J. Jr., tipped the scales at 5 pounds 16½ ounces. oBth he and his older sister Loris, 6, are the grandchildren of Mrs. Fred Fellows of Soledad and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bonnifield of Pocatello, Idaho.

Mrs. Berger Attends Dedication:

New Hospital Wing Memorial to Husband

The late Colonel Harvey A. Berger, who gave his life during World War II, was once again honored when Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Gloucester, unveiled a tablet to his memory on Tuesday, June 21.

Col. Berger's widow, Clara Berger of Menlo Park, flew to England to witness the dedication of a new maternity wing at Rutland Memorial hospital, viewing the proceedings from a red-carpeted dais filled with dignitaries.

The memorial tablet unveiled by Her Royal Highness read

COLONEL BERGER

"To the memory of Col. Harvey A. Berger who gave his life on active service on April 3, 1945, and in whose name the officers and men of the 318 Troop Carrying Group, United States Army, made a donation towards this building as a token of their appreciation of the hospitality received during their sojourn in the County of Rutland."

The original sum named in the plaque (more than 460 pounds) had been donated toward a maternity wing by the officers and men stationed under Col. Berger's command at nearby Cottesmore. The Troop Carrying Group represented our airborne army, the men who transport paratroopers into battle.

Col. Berger, who was killed during one of the early 1945 campaigns, was posthumously awarded the Silver and Bronze Stars, as well as the French Croix de Guerre with Palm Leaf. Before his death he received both the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

General Harold Clark had presented the sum of money in Col. Berger's name, saying that he was an outstanding officer and a very brave man who was personally popular and much respected.

OPENING ADDRESS

In her opening address at the June 21 dedication, Lady Gretton, chairman of the Rutland hospital board, said:

"I am sure our hearts are with Mrs. Berger this afternoon, and that it is our wish that this memorial to her husband should always serve as a reminder of the great friendship between our two countries."

Mrs. Berger, her first days in England, was the houseguest of Lord and Lady Gretton at their lovely 5000-acre family estate, Stapleford Hall. On the day of the dedication, Mrs. Berger attended a luncheon given by Lady Gretton to acquaint her with the Duchess of Gloucester.

MRS. STREET

Also during her fortnight's stay in England, Mrs. Berger was a guest of Mrs. Thelma Street, who headed the Women's Volunteer Services during the war, proving such a good friend to our servicemen stationed there.

Sightseeing in England and Paris, and back to Menlo Park (where she returned last week) via Denver,her home town, and the Southern States, completed Mrs. Berger's travels.

Proud of the honor bestowed on their father and awaiting their mother's return were Gerald Berger, 16, who attends Menlo-Atherton; Tom, 14, a student at Menlo school (where he's working this summer) and Harvey Arthur Jr., 10, an Encinal student.

Date Depends on His Return:

Sue Passinetti, Robert Hansel Join Ranks of Newly-Engaged

The quantity of air mail letters between Menlo Park and the Philippines will soon increase, as Sue Ann Passinetti starts writing to her fiance, Robert F. Hansel, who is to be stationed in the Pacific islands with the air force.

Sue and Bob, who announced their engagement last week, are postponing wedding plans until he returns—expected date, some time in 1957.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood P. Passinetti, Sue was graduated from Menlo-Atherton high school and will resume studies toward a dental assistant's career at the College of San Mateo.

Along with her school work, the bride-elect has been very active in Bethel 170, Job's Daughters, having served as honored queen of the organization. In fact, she met her fiance through activities between Job's Daughters and Chapter 1203, DeMolay, in which Bob served as master counselor.

The prospective bridegroom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hansel of Redwood City, received his diploma from Sequoia high school and continued studies at San Jose State college.

His only brother is Rex Hansel.

News of the young couple's betrothal was revealed a fortnight or so ago at a party held in the Passinetti home while Bob was home on leave.

Mrs. Fenton Reports On Chiropractic Confab

Mrs. L. Howard Fenton of Menlo Park, director, gave a report on the recent State Chiropractic convention when members of the San Mateo county Chiropractic auxiliary met for supper at the home of their president, Mrs. R. S. Skonnard.

Plans are now in the mill for a barbecue to be given some time in September. More definite is the date—August 16 at 8 p. m.—for the chapter's next meeting, to be held at Mrs. Otto Kramer's home, 1230 Vancouver avenue, Burlingame.

M-A Bridge Club Announces Change In Tourney Dates

Next Monday at 1 p. m. is the date and time set by the Menlo Atherton Bridge club for its monthly masterpoint; this marks a change from the regular fourth Monday meeting. A change is also announced for the unit masterpoint, which will be conducted henceforth on the second Wednesday, instead of second Fridays.

Ann White and Mary Huggins were winners of the Women's Championship held last Friday. Mrs. Henry Kuechler Jr. and Mrs. Leland Rosener placed second, while Mrs. Richard Morton and Mrs. John Leahy, Mrs. M. F. Swanson and Mrs. J. C. Mathews tied for third.

Monday's masterpoint winners were:

North-South—Mrs. Richard Morton and Mrs. John Leahy, Mrs. John Benevento and Mrs. Virginia Alexander, Glen Cooper and Mary Huggins, Mrs. Edward McNear and Mrs. Murad Saleeby.

East-West—Mrs. Stephen Chelbay and Mrs. A. F. Kelly, Ann White and Nancy Bulf, Mrs. William Taylor and Mrs. Jess Sammon, Virginia Fenerin and Frank Savstrom.

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE'S annual clearance at the "Next-to-New" shop in San Francisco opened yesterday and will continue through Saturday.

Henry Knutzens Leave Sunday For Three Months' Trip Abroad

By PROXY

Taking care of those last-minute details right now are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knutzen, who are planning to fly from Los Angeles Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Alyn Thatcher of San Mateo for the first stop on their three months' itinerary.

During their trip, Mrs. Knutzen's sister, Mrs. M. Klamer of Los Angeles, will occupy the localites' Atherton residence.

In Stockholm, where the Knutzens are to land, their son Don will be waiting for them. On leave from his medical corps duties in La Rochelle, the younger Knutzen will accompany his parents to his father's great-grandfather's estate in South Norway and on a one-month tour of Scandinavia.

From there, the localites plan to reunite with the Thatchers in Amsterdam, then pick up cars for a tour of Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy as far as Rome, where the Knutzens will visit with friends attached to the Embassy there and the Thatchers will continue to Sicily.

Climax of this wonderful trip will be France, a visit with Don, La Rochelle and a stay in Gay Paree.

C. J. Herlicks on Visit Here After Two Year Stay in Britain

The colonel's lady—Mrs. Conrad J. Herlick—has probably packed away more memories than paraphernalia durng the years of her husband's transfers. And the freshest of all those memories concern two years spent in England.

Mrs. Herlick, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bishopp of Menlo Park, is currently visiting here en route to Washington, D. C. where Col. Herlick is to attend war college.

While the colonel was commanding officer of a fighter interceptor wing at Manston, England, Mrs. Herlick (Jody) and daughter Christine (also visiting here) made their home with him in Birchington, a tiny town near Manston and also near Canterbury, where the world famous Cathedral is located.

BRACE OF HOMES

During their two years' stay, the family moved into a brace of different houses—the first, according to Mrs. Herlick, was typically English with its traditional enclosed garden, while the second, "Mille Fleurs," was built along Cape Cod lines.

Birchington, the air force wife continued, is one of those small communities which sleeps during winter, but comes to life during the summer months when city dwellers open up their beautiful seasonal homes.

The Herlicks' house, situated almost "plunk" on the North Sea, luckily escaped the smog and fog which often shrouds some of the English landscape. Often "angry" in the wintertime, the sea offered them an unendingly interesting series of views, Mrs. Herlick notes.

ENGLISH SCHOOL

Christine, of course, had to continue her studies while abroad, so she was entered in an English school.

The work at first was extremely difficult, according to her mother, since British youngsters are further advanced in their curriculum—at the 11 year level, children there are given a test and are generally ready to start the equivalent of our high school (if not, Mrs. Herflick said, they go on to trade school).

One of the summer residents of the area was the inimitable Lady Astor, whom the Herlicks had an opportunity to meet frequently. "She was very kind to us," notes Mrs. Herlick, "and often had us over to luncheon."

STILL ACTIVE

Lady Astor, continues the colonel's wife, is an unusually interesting and scintillating person to know. In her 70's, this active woman (who still divides her allegiance between the United States and England) plays a round of golf at the Royal St. George course—her game equalling her age.

The diminutive "grande dame," Mrs. Herlick recalled for us, was the first woman member of Parliament; her seat has since been taken over by her son, Lord Astor.

Other highlights of the family's sojourn, aside from trips to the Continent and a motor tour of England and Scotland, included a reception given by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the "Buff" regiment's changing of colors.

CONFERENCE

There was also a conference Mrs. Herlick attended at Berchtesgaden when representatives of all American women's organizations in Europe gathered during April (there are more than 50,000 US women currently in England and the Continent, says the colonel's wife).

The Archbishop's reception, to which the Herlicks were invited, took place more than a year ago, and was staged at Lambeth Palace to thank all the groups which had responded to the Greek Earthquake appeal. The Duke of Edinburgh, whose lineage is part Greek, was guest of honor and principal speaker.

Mrs. Herlick said she was quite surprised at the size of the reception—there were not more than 200 guests present.

CHANGING COLORS

One of the moving events the family viewed was the famed "Buff's" changing of the colors—an occurence happening every 50 years or so when the old colors wear out. Taking place in Canterbury, the regiment's home station, the honor guest was their sponsor, the King of Denmark.

The ceremony included an elaborate military review and precision band work—then the King's inspection, following which the old colors were trooped off the field and the new colors unfurled and blessed.

And as with the old colors and the new, the Herlicks look back on their two eventful years in England, while still looking forward to new assignments, places and experiences.

Carmel Area Sights On Ross' Itinerary

Quite a few sights in the Carmel area (excepting those "killer" whales) were on the vacation agenda of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ross, who unpacked their bags Friday at their Brandon way home.

Gone for five days in all, the Ross' headquartered at Carmel Valley Inn and sidetripped through the Seventeen-Mile drive, Big Sur and around Carmel.

Fallis' Still Excited About Recent Vacation

Home, and still excited about their recent vacation, are the Edward Fallis' and their two daughters, Paulette and Donna.

Mrs. Fallis is singing the praises of Feather River Inn which was so much fun, she said, that it was hard getting the girls to leave. Supervised horseback riding, fishing contests, hayrides and many games kept the youngsters happy and occupied, she pointed out.

After their week at Feather River, the local family traveled to Tahoe for a few days of motor boating, relaxing and taking in some of the floor shows.

Little House:

Talk and Pictures on 'Baja California' Scheduled

Colored slides and a discussion of Baja, California will be presented at 2:15 p. m. today by Robert D. Collyer Jr., aquatic biologist in the marine fisheries branch of the California department of Fish and Game.

The son of Mr. Collyer, program director for Little House, today's speaker has directed several extensive expeditions to Lower California and its coastal and gulf waters. He will relate some of his experiences in the waters bordering that peninsula area.

Regular activities at Little House for the week of July 29-August 3 include:

TODAY—10 a. m. flower ceramics class; 10:30 a. m. party favor class; 7:30 p. m. group piano instruction and music appreciation.

Long Uncluttered Lines, Slim Skirts, Neutral Colors Predominate at Thursday Fashion Showing

As is so often true, the vast turnout of spectators at last Thursday's fashion show vied in a field of finery with a bevy of New York models who paraded the latest work of three top designers.

The audience glitter was provided by a crowd (more than 180 dinner reservations) of Circus club members who came to see "The Imperial Fashion Show," a new mustard-color glamor car framed in gold and red velvet.

Costumes modelled were, on the fall forecast staged around the pool. Only decor for the event was whole, quite spectacular with many slim sheaths and a goodly assortment of satin theater coats. Applause was brought forth by a Gallanos creation of orange chiffon and another diaphenous chiffon—this one of beige pink.

It looks like a new shade for mink this fall—"Desert Sand." Also looks as if full skirts are on their way out, neutral colors and uncluttered design, on their way in. Brown, beige and black, with splashes of red, predominated—and the "H" line is still with us, if Thursday's show was any indication.

The feminine contingent viewing the affair represented every shade of mink and cashmere, and prett ytans contrasted with white.

Among the onlookers were Ellie and Harry McFadden, excited about their coming weekend in San Francisco, where they were to see "Kismet' 'one night and the "Solid Gold Cadillac," the next.

Pat McNeur, with a lovely white bandeau against her dark hair, was there with husband Grant, both chatting with Tom Cooper, who's "batching" it while his wife Ellie and the children are at Rio del Mar.

Wives sans husbands were Sally Hooper, who added flowers to her pony tail, and Sue Logan, all in white. Sally Hexom appeared in a gorgeous ruffled cocktail dress sashed in bright blue, chatting with her brother and sister-in-law, Bob and Helen Hexom.

The Henry Kuechlers Jr. were also on hand, as was their daughter Sue and her husband and the Frank Seeligs.

LACE SHEATH

Erhling and Marion Hustvedt were busy conversing with Dick O'Neill and his bride of a few months, while whirling around the dance floor were the Howard Borens.

Dancing to Jack Fisher's orchestra, dining on New York (braised) rounded out the evening

Talented Menloite Makes Rug Braiding A Hobby

By MAGGIE MOORE

Truly a treat for the eyes and the spirit, the William Good home at 450 Formosa way was for us a revelation.

This charming little rustic ranch type home went far to convert us from contemporary to early American and did it from our first glance. It was the effect of Mrs. Good's beautiful braided rugs that did it—the total effect did not fall into details until later.

"I'm so much for the uncluttered look that I could very easily turn to modern," Edith—"Pete"—Good told us.

And the beautiful simplicity of the decoration of her home with the warmth of early American dispelled immediately the former impressions that early American (as interpreted today) was cluttered up with trivet planters and improbable reproductions as well as garish, uninviting "rag rugs" of the braided variety.

The Goode home instead, as originally planned by Bill and Pete, is warm with the glow of softly polished pine woodwork and features a wide window expanse looking over the pleastant garden as well as a fireplace.

Shining plank flooring sets off the braided rugs — no rag rugs, these! Instead they are of soft colored woolen fabric, thick strips braided in the traditional manner and stitched together with linen thread. The colors, repeated in the rest of the room decoration, give a richness which we must admit was new and exciting to us.

While making the rugs, petite Mrs. Good sits on the floor. It would be impossible to handle them otherwise.

WIDE STRIPS

She prepares for her work by cutting the materials into wide strips, stitching the ends together on her portable sewing machine. This job she declares to be a good third of the work.

Some rug makers use little metal gadgets to hold their materials in line, but Pete follows the school which deftly braids without these and seems to do it quicker than she would with them. As she braids, she folds edges under and inside so that when sht stitches the braid into the oval shape she can catch and secure the edges as she goes along.

Pete—the nickname comes from her maiden name of Peterson, and is shared by her brother and father as well—first started to make rugs in Kansas City where she is quick to say that there are many more to be seen than hereabouts.

THROUGH FACTORIES

There was a shop which taught the method and carried the materials—but she and Bill preferred going to the garment factories and going through the huge bins of mill ends for useable remnants.

In their early enthusiasm they would sometimes come home with all the wrong colors, having seized upon pieces because of their good length. Now they have learned to choose only what is right.

When she first arrived in California, Pete was unable to find places where she could get her materials. In fact, her most beautiful rug, now in the living room often discouraged her. While another similar rug took three months to complete, this one took three years.

DELAYS

Complications like the arrival of a baby and dearth of materials accounted for the delay.

However, the material problem has been solved. With growing familarity of the Peninsula, Pete found a shop in Los Gatos much like the one in Kansas City and has been able to obtain wonderful colors and textures. In fact, she could even have colors dyed to order.

This find could be partly responsible for her latest project for the front hall, a new 4x6 rug.

"It's not an expensive hobby," Pete will tell you. "It costs about two dollars a foot to make a rug."

A THOUSAND

But then realize that a well-known Los Altos furniture store has sold these at nearly $1000 a rug, and has even approached Pete to have her make some for them, and you find that the initial cost is fairly small.

Pete has already sold a couple of her rugs and with no difficulty, but she mainly wants to do her own rooms. Someday she and Bill hope to build another home and there will be plenty of leeway for the hobby.

A good deal of the charm of the Good home is due to Bill who has left evidence of this throughout the house. In his well-equipped shop he has turned out several pieces of furniture, copies of early American pieces which blend in beautifully with the antiques acquired by the Goods.

SURPRISE TABLE

In the kitchen is the table he made while Pete was away for six weeks. He had it completed and finished with a satin hand-rubbed surface whe nshe arrived home.

Side tables and a small boy-size table are products of his work also. The boy-size table is located in front of the television set and is a frequent spot for TV dining for the two Good children, Billy, 8, and Doug, 3.

Pete is very enthusiastic about the location of the TV, incidentally. Bill has just completed a built-in spot in the master bedroom where it will eventually be put on a pivot so that it can be turned to any viewing spot desired.

INFORMALITY

The convenience of the location makes for more informality in family viewing, and still doesn't interfere with guests or children's bedtime or parents' enjoyment, Pete says.

Completing the setting for the Good family are the quaintly and suitable provincial prints, in wall coverings and fabrics, and the accessories.

One conversation-piece lamp was made out of an antique ink bottle.

It was Bill's, handed down from days when the country schoolmaster would have all the children empty their smaller bottles of ink into the big one at day's end so that he could take it home overnight. This was because otherwise it would freeze if left to the cold schoolroom during the winter.

A FEW FOR EFFECT

A pewter-washed copper lamp base and other antique metal accessories are to be found—but not too many! This last is the secret we feel. A few well chosen and compatible items create the total effect.

We just mention the tiny glass-doored whatnot cabinet which was one of the first items Bill ever made before he had a "shop," and done "practically with a penknife," Pete said.

Then there are the two little red - bottomed antique ladder chairs in the dining room and the little chiffonier in the living room which Pett bought for $5 when they were first married. With the legs cut off and some fine examples of Pennsylvania Dutch motifs painted on it (by Pete), the chiffonier is one of their special pieces.

HAPPY REVELATION

We started out telling you that the Good home was a happy revelation for us—we repeat and emphasize that it is another prime example of a home that grew through the years of a happy family's life.

Bill's woodwork, a distinct change of pace from his accounting career, and Pete's craftsmanship and art have brought it all together with a love and appreciation for taste and warmth and beauty.

Among Those At Lake Tahoe

Ta-HO! This call has attracted a goodly number of localites recently, especially in the cabins around Tahoe lodge.

Among those on, in or near the lake where the Dick Zellerbachs having a wonderful time with his new Chris-craft speedboat which Scotty McCann (also there with wife Jane and the Ed Martins) helped pick out. Visiting with the Zellerbachs was Polly Savage.

The Joseph Greenback cabin attracted their daughter Kay (Mrs. William Moore) and her children this month, while their other daughter Gloria (Mrs. Jack Tehaney) is planning to bring her brood up for the month of August.

Dot Cashin and her youngsters have also been staying up there, while Emmet holds down the home front.

Clear Lake Setting For Lencione Stay

The tricky art of water skiing has been mastered by Gary Lencione who, with his parents the Gene Lenciones and his sister Linda, spent a wonderful two weeks' vacation in a cabin at Clear Lake.

Home as of Saturday, the Lenciones said they saw two other local families at the Lake resort — the Louis Lenciones and the Loren "Bud" Griders.

M. H. Hatchmans Enjoy Trout Fishing

Trout fishing in Montana and camping there with friends was a highlight of the trip for the local family—the two Hatchman youngsters, Bob and Laurie, proved to be real anglers, according to their mother.

POOL OPENING

Menlo Park residents were reminded this week that Burgess park pool is open for "family night" swimming from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. every Thursday.

Milton Grays Name Daughter Deborah

Deborah Denise is the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Grays of 964 Newbridge avenue. The 7 pound 7 ounce baby girl was born in Palo Alto hospital on July 19.

Edna Louise, who will be 4 August 29 and James Mason, 16 months are mighty happy about their new little sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hebert are the maternal grandparents. They live in Waco, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Grays moved here from Mountain View 26 months ago.

Delmor Jenkins to Wed Mountain View Girl

The Howard Jenkins home on Windermere avenue will be the setting tomorrow evening for the marriage of their son, Delmor, to Pauline Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mack of Mountain View.

Twenty-five guests are expected to view the intimate 7:30 p. m. nuptials, which will be followed by the reception.

Delmor entered the navy from Sequoia high school, and is now working with a San Mateo construction company.

Winston Girls Enplane

The three Winston girls, Donna, Karen and Rochell, left by plane Tuesday to spend a month or so in Chicago with their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Winston.

T hetrio are daughters of realtor-broker Don Winston and Mrs. Winston of Menlo Park.

WEAVING ON DISPLAY

A display of weaving by Mrs. Bernice Grimes is being shown in conjunction with a Peninsula Arts and Crafts school display of watercolors by George Post, at the school, San Mateo drive in San Mateo.

RODDY LEAHY celebrated his birthday Saturday with a "stag" luncheon and beach party.

Black and White Set Pace for Apartment Decor

Not only do we introduce you this week to a stunning apartment furnished and decorated on a close budget, but to its newest occupant, Sallie Berge, who arrived here last week from Portland, Oregon, to share housekeeping with Joyce Coalter.

Dark-haired Joyce, though a Menlo Park resident for only a year now, is a familiar figure on Santa Cruz avenue—she works at Joe Prein's and does most of her shopping and lunching right in town.

Her household shopping in particular Joyce has done wisely and well. She was faced with the prospect of completely furnishing her new apartment—except for the piano which accompanied her to Menlo—on a very small budget.

GOOD FURNITURE

The course she chose was good basic furniture and bargain accessories.

Even the old argument that an apartment isn't permanent, and taste in furnishings changes does does not hold in Joyce's case, since her "wrought-tan" (wrought iron and rattan) chair and couch have zippered covers that can be replaced at any time.

COLOR RELIEF

Walls are relieved of starkness with a faint suggestion of seafoam green, a shade which blends well with chartreuse (we had to see it to believe it).

When you first enter the living room it looks as if Joyce had had it carpeted from wall to wall. Actually, it's two 9 by 12 white cotton shag rugs which she and her mother labored over for many hours piecing together. That was a real bargain, Joyce notes, since both rugs were on sale.

Though white doesn't sound too practical, it has proven to be.

AT FIRST

At first guests to the apartment felt compelled to doff their shoes and tread on the snowy loops gingerly; now, they bring in all the dirt they have with them, and the rug still looks white.

As a direct contrast to the floor covering, Joyce bought several yards of black linen-like material (terrifically inexpensive, she says) and had it made into draperies—if she had been a do-it-yourself-er, she would have saved the bulk of the cost.

Harmonizing with the black and white motif is the wrought-tan couch, its foam rubber cushions covered with a smart print alleviated by two round coral colored pillows.

The couch and chairs, Joyce says, were upholstered to order where she bought the furniture. The coral chair and hassock are matched with a lamp shade, also made to order.

CHARTREUSE CORNER

One corner of the room is done in chartreuse.

A screen of that tone hides television—a wrought iron occasional bench, which Joyce says was a housewarming gift, boasts a chartreuse cushion, while still another gift—a potted plant—has a chartreuse pot.

The corner opposite this is the one occupied by the coral chair, hassock and lamp—so there is color aplenty.

Each of the hues in the room is repeated in a wall hanging draped above Joyce's console—an original print purchased through a friend, the hanging features a graceful Japanese cherry tree with birds of yellow-green and rose-coral.

Living room accessories include a lovely "splatter stone" coffee table on wrought iron legs, a miniature serving cart which accommodates a large piggy bank (also a gift and open to "contributions" jokes Joyce), a corner book case, the piano and a couple of large ash trays on legs.

IRON BRAZIER

One of the latter, brought down by Sallie, is a wrought iron brazier often found in back yards for barbecuing, but filled with sand in this instance. (The Oregonian says she's also thought of heaping it with colorful fruit, either real or wax).

The two young women are now making plans to decorate the bedroom—so far, this room boasts a long double headboard behind the twin beds and a chest of "splatter stone"—the latter, an easy to care for surface much resembling terrazzo.

With such a comfortable and attractive setting, both Joyce and Sallie can expect a continuous stream of company. Sallie enjoys cooking for a gang, she admits; since she has just arrived here and is still looking for a 9 to 5 address (anything, but an office), she has plenty of time to devote in the kitchen.

Members of Menlo Park's oldest continuous women's organization, the Native Daughters of the Golden West witnessed the candlelight installation of their new officers last Tuesday, July 19.

Orchid and white flowers in baskets were used to harmonize with Incoming President Mrs. William Dwyer's installation gown. An escort team bearing lighted tapers entered the room before the actual ceremony, thus lending an even prettier atmosphere to the proceedings.

The new president, known as "E" to her friends, has resided in Menlo Park with her husband for six years now. Aside from the Native Daughters, she has been active in veterans' welfare work putting in many hours at the Veterans hospital here.

Mrs. Dwyer will preside over her first meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 2, in the "yellow" room of the Menlo Park civic center. At that time, plans will be made for the unit's membership tea and fundraising affair, both tentatively planned for fall.

Hostess of the evening is to be Mrs. Victoria Hartman.

Other officers seated last week were Mrs. Donald Smith, past president; Mrs. Jack Derry, first vice president; Mrs. Lawrence L. Johnston Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Ernest King, third vice president.

Mrs. Cecil Cane, marshal; Mrs. John Pilling, inside sentinel; Mrs. A. B. Rogers, outside sentinel; Mrs. Walter Mattson, Mrs. Paul Sparks and Mrs. John Grass, trustees; Mrs. Laura Barteis, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Loverich, financial secretary and Mrs. Louise Hurray, treasurer.

NDGW GAVEL CHANGES HANDS

MRS. WILLIAM DWYER (left) received the gavel of the Menlo Park parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, from Outgoing President Mrs. Donald Smith. Installation ceremonies for the unit were held last Tuesday.

Newcomers to Hear:

TALK ON 'WINE'

James Donnelly of the Wine Advisory board of California will speak on "California wines and vines" at next Wednesday's general meeting of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers club.

A 12 noon social hour will precede 12:30 p. m. luncheon at the Old Plantation in Los Altos, setting for the conclave. Reservations for the event may be made by calling Mrs. Charles L. Petersen at DA 2-7352.

As an added nicety to the meal, and in accordance with Mr. Donnelly's talk, wine will be served.

Information on membership, open to all women having lived in this area for less than a year, may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Virgil Dion at DA 2-7352.

GIRL SCOUT adults in the Sequoia area council are urged to contact Mrs. Roy Meredith, EM 6-1527, if interested in helping to hostess the November 1-4 national convention.

More About:

GIRL SCOUT CAMP . . . .

the camp as a unit, and patrol leaders have been busy of late meeting with the girls to see that equipment and camping skills are up to standard.

DEMOCRATIC

The patrols have been combined with other patrols of different age levels and from different towns, so that the girls will have a really democratic experience.

Patrol leaders include Jill Harker and Linda Heino of Menlo Park; Carol Stevenson and Dorothy Carr of Atherton; Marge Hartford, Anne Davis, Judy Baily, Tena Coffey, Julie Ann Forchini, Ann Purse and Betty Brown.

Adult leaders, who will advise each troop and live in their units with them, are Mrs. H. Reese and Mrs. Jack Denton of East Palo Alto, Mrs. Charles Woods, Mrs. H. Weber and Mrs. Kenneth Sawyer. Mrs. K. Darrell Wooden will handle the "Davy Crockett" unit for 5 younger children whose mothers are staff members.

GENERAL STAFF

The general staff comprises Mrs. Peter Gillespie, coordinator; Mrs. James Morrison of Menlo Park, commissary; Mrs. George Harmssen, equipment, and Mrs. R. E. Damon, campcraft consultant.

There will also be a registered nurse on the staff, and arrangements have been made with Dr. John F. Sawin of San Carlos to be the "on-call" doctor.

The entire general staff is to work with the unit leaders in the troops as needed, rotating members each day between patrols.

FROM GROUND UP

Since the encampment will be held in an undeveloped area of Huddart park, the girls will have to build their camps from the ground up—lashing tables, wash stands and other necessities; digging latrines and grease pits; contriving showers and the like.

Each patrol will be given a food supply daily from the commissary, and will be free to prepare the groceries to their own tastes. In addition, patrols will prepare songs and playlets—with a Western or California theme—for their camp fire.

And in their spare (?) time, the girls will take hikes along the many beautiful trails in the park, as well as contributing something to the nightly camp fire program.

SPECIAL GUESTS

On Tuesday, special guests who have cooperated in planning the encampment will be invited to visit the camp and have luncheon.

Guests will include Ralph H. Shaw, superintendent of parks and recreation; Fred Eilerman, park superintendent; John Volpiano, chief of the Woodside Fire Protection District.

Mrs. David Bohannon, Girl Scout committeewoman, Region XII; Margaret Dady, executive director of North county Scouts; Barbara Hallman, executive director of Sequoia area; Mrs. Ernest R. Golladay, troop camp chairman.

SEQUOIA AREA HEAD

Mrs. F. Everett Emerson, president of Sequoia area council; Mrs. Roy Meredith, vice president; Mrs. John Ziegler, camping chairman and Mrs. Frank Guild, campsites committee.

One of the highlights of the encampment will be a visit August 3 from Mrs. A. S. Kalenborn, noted authority on pioneer days in California, particularly of the Woodside area.

County GOP Women Gathered Recently At Woodside Estate

Members of the San Mateo county council of Republican women, who gathered recently at the Woodside estate of Mrs. Kenneth Graham, learned that headquarters for the 1956 Republican National Convention are soon to be established in the hostess city of San Francisco.

This information was part of a talk given by Mill Jane Zimmerman who, with Mrs. Merritt Hosmer and Mrs. Douglas Morgan, has just returned from Washington, D. C., where the Convention of the Women's division, GOP National committee was held.

Others participating in the Woodside gathering were Mrs. Margaret Chapman of East Palo Alto, Mrs. Maude Eeshelman of Menlo Park, Mrs. Edward Russell, Mrs. Harold Jahn and Mrs. Dallas Conine of Woodside, Mrs. Edith Letts, Mrs. Clem Jodcy, Mrs. Goldwin Whitebread and Mrs. Donald Weed of Redwood City.

For Menertons:

SUN AND FUN

Mrs. Daniel Black, 498 Ringwood avenue, will be hostess Monday to the second meeting of The Menertons.

Scheduled to start at 12:30 p. m., the "sun 'n fun" gathering will be co-hostessed by Miss Ruth Leon, Mrs. Stanley Wyass, Mrs. Luella G. Haberty and Mrs. Harry Kimball. Members attending are asked to bring their own sandwiches; coffee and dessert will be served.

At a special program Harry C. Miner will give a demonstration of cake decorations.

Mrs. A. P. Hinkes at DA 2-5977 is taking reservations for the affair.

Membership in The Menertons is open to all women who have been members in good standing of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers club; further information on membership in the former may be had by calling Mrs. John Schumacher at DA 5-4655.

Joan Heaney To Become Mrs. Royce

Two Menloites are making plans this week for their marriage on Sunday, following which they will honeymoon for a month in Balboa, then establish their first home together in Riverside, where the bridegroom-elect has accepted a position with a laboratory.

Carmel will be the setting for nuptials uniting Joan A. Heaney daughter of Frank Boulet of Menlo Park and the late Mrs. Boulet and Donald F. Boyce.

Mrs. Ella Stallings, another Menloite, will serve as the bridal attendant, while Mr. Boulet is to stand up for the benedict. The ceremony is planned as a very intimate one.

The future Mrs. Royce, a graduate of Sequoia high school, continued her studies at the Palo Alto Secretarial school and has been employed with Varian associates where she met her fiance.

Mr. Royce received degrees from both California institute of Technology and Stanford business school. His family resides in Southern California.

Army Daughters Make Plans for Spaghetti Party

Final preparations for their August 27 spaghetti party will be made Wednesday when members of the Peninsula chapter of Army Daughters gather at Mrs. A. Svihra's Palo Alto home, 1840 Newell road.

Open to escorts, too, the party will begin at 7 p. m. at the home of Colonel and Mrs. T. W. Christman, 250 Churchill avenue, Palo Alto. Reservations must be made by August 15 with Miss Virginia Higgins, DA 2-7578.

Proceeds from the Army Daughters' May tea and fashion show were presented recently to the Stanford Speech and Hearing clinic by Mrs. David Perry Jr., chapter president. Dr. Hayes Newby, acting clinic director, accepted, while Dr. Virgil Anderson of the clinic and Mrs. William Lutticken, former chapter president, looked on.

'Tour de Decors' Major Event of Museum Celebration

Planned as one of the major events in the year-long celebration of the San Francisco Museum of Art's 20th anniversary, a "Tour de Decors" will be launched November 7 with a supper at the St. Francis followed by a preview of the displays for museum members.

The exhibits—entire room settings displayed in the shops of San Francisco's most noted decorators—will thereafter be open to the public daily from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. through Sunday, November 13.

In conjunction with this event, original gowns from the city's smart shops will be modelled in each "room" setting by women prominent in the area's social life. Fashions will be chosen with an eye toward their suitability to the various settings.

Sponsors of the "Tour de Decors" are members of the Women's board of the San Francisco Museum of Art, which includes many from the deep peninsula area. Among those locally active are Mrs. Alfred Ducato and Mrs. Winston C. Black of Atherton.

Tickets for the tour go on sale September 6.

Cros Cole Currently Stationed in Florida

Currently enjoying the heat — but not the humidity of Jacksonville, Florida, is Ensign Creswell Chapin Cole of Atherton, who left two weeks ago to attend preflight training classes in the southland.

Cres, son of Mrs. Roy Robinette and the late Creswell Cole, received his bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering from Stanford last month and was concurrently commissioned in the navy.

In May Cres and Rozella Boyd daughter of Mrs. Walter Newlin Boyd of Los Angeles, and the late Mr. Boyd, announced their engagement; marriage plans for the couple will depend on the navy.

BUILDING contractor Earl Berendsen, who recently bought a motel at Lake Tahoe, and with Mrs. Berendsen departed for the resort to manage it and remain for the summer, returned home after just two weeks, saying there's no place like Menlo Park.

IT'S A BOY

Sequoia hospital was the locale for the birth of a son July 5 for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lopez of 1933 Cooley avenue. The new East Palo Altan weighed in at 6 pounds 10 ounces.

THE CARL PERTIROTTI's are boasting about their 7 pound 9 ounce son born July 19 at Palo Alto hospital.

THE WORTH ELANEYS of 800 Arbor road on July 16 became the parents of a daughter.

St. Francis Church Bake Sale To Be Held Sunday

St. Francis Church Bake Sale will be held on Sunday, July 31, at the church hall, Bay Road and Glen Way, from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. Homemade pies, cakes, candy and cookies, also homemade jams and jellies will be on sale.

The sale is open to the public. Proceeds will go towards the Church Building Fund.

HOME FROM SEACLIFF

The Harry C. Gordons returned home Saturday after spending two weeks with relatives in Seacliff. The localites were accompanied by their son, Harry, who enjoyed the sunny days—of which there were several.

What's Doing Among Menlo Park Teen-Agers

Jo Booth DA 3-1909

By CAROL TUFT

EDITOR'S NOTE

While concerts, fabulous parties at the renowned Edgewater beach hotel and the part of a prioress in the production "Cradle Song" keeps Northwestern co-ed Jo Booth "terrifically busy," word has come that a nasty bug titled "Homesickness" has been circulating the campus.

To keep this bug from biting Jo, we are writing this week's column in the form of a letter to tell her of the many doin's of the teen set.

Dear Jo,

Despite the fact the local airports, train stations, bus stations and gas stations are overflowing with traveling teeners, enough seemed to be on hand last week to stage some very successful parties.

PARTY MENUS

A slumber special a la mode a treasure hunt was ordered especially for Carol Mignen last week by friends Cathy Long, Barbara DeFrane and Laddie Gock.

The party concocted by the three to bid Carol "adios" and to wish her good luck in her new home in Washington, D. C. Starting with lunch beside the pool at the Menlo Country club, Cathy, Barbara, Laddie, Carol, Sheri Adams, Joanne Johnson and Julie Wells, spent the rest of the afternoon swimming and working up an enormous appetite for dinner at Barbara's that evening.

After dinner the next stop was Laddies's, where the girls spent two hours treasure hunting for Carol's going-away presents. After stealing a few hours' sleep, the girls finished off the affair with breakfast at Cathy's.

* * *

Mix well. Add a few boat rides for flavor and bake in the sun at Searsville. These ingredients are guaranteed to turn out a perfect birthday party every time. Just ask Sue!

* * *

A swimming whooper!—If you had been in the neighborhood of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mastri last Sunday, you certainly would have known this party was in progress. With more than 50 teeners from St. Raymond's youth group in and around the swimming pool one could hardly miss the happy laughter that came from the property.

Cookies, baked by 10 energetic girls, helped curb the swimmers' appetities. Planners of the party included President Jim Derry, Vice President Barney Ford, Treasurer Jack Tuttle and Secretary Janice Meather.

* * *

ADD INSIDEMS

—The opening of Disneyland last week found most of us in front of our television sets. Not so for Amrette Ott. At special invitation, the lucky gal was on hand for the gala opening in person and had great fun touring the famed park.

—Off on a prospecting trip to Idaho with his grandfather goes John Regan next week and, just to prove excitement runs in the family, brother Bill Regan will soon return from his summer stay with the explorer scouts in Alaska!

—Sheri Adams is reportedly acquainting herself with Portland and is enjoying her stay very much. Now familiar with the territory, Bob Miese has just returned from a tour of the whole Northwest region where he took on some water skiing and boating with the scenery.

—Susan Smust is finding Los Angeles much to her liking, while at the other end of the state, twins, Elizabeth and Patsy Gullison think Mount Shasta is the last word in mountain resorts.

—Graduation from high school is a big event in everyone's life and the Walsh family are making sure their daughter Nancy doesn't forget hers for some time. Receiving as her gift a trip to Hawaii, Nancy left yesterday to bask in the sun at Waikiki and take in the gorgeous sights for two weeks!

—Canada seems to be a popular vacation spot for teeners, and helping it keep its reputation, Sue Hall is enjoying some of the city life along with the wild life.

—Carmel by the Sea—even the name sounds good enough to eat, agree thoroughly-tanned Judy and Cindy Klink after spending three days sunning themselves and taking in the famed Bach music festival.

ADD OUTSIDEMS

—Walking our feet off through the many clothing stores in San Francisco, Corinne and Margie Hirsch, Carol Drury, Rhoda Maxfield and yours truly forgot the aches and pains when we sat down to see "Kismet." All agree it's really worth seeing!

—With the M-A '55 yearbook just out of its cradle, editor of the '56 yearbook, Jackie Cook, has already begun to lay plans to make the next book even bigger and better. Meeting with her last week to talk over ideas and, of course, summer vacations and doin's were Merry Davenport, Joanne Felkner, Diane Neil, Gail Montana and advisor, Mr. Murray.

—With the warm weather getting warmer and the tans getting deeper, Searsville Lake seems to be a popular swimming and sunning place.

Some seen on the sands have been Evelyn Hodges, Jerry Ellis, Ken McKenna, Gerrie Keely, Phyllis Irby, Corinne Hirsch, Bob Harold, Bunny Clark, Margie Hutter, Nancy Achilles, Cathy Peterson, Margie Fitzmaurice, Marian Irish, Bobbie Edmunds, Pat Girven, Sally Cotton, Kristi Oison and yours truly.

—When not basking in the sun, roller skating seems to be a second best pasttime as your reporter ventured out on the floor at Rolladium and acquired, along with a few bumps and bruises, some notes from Cathy Peterson, Bunny Clark, Bea Bowen, Margie Fitzmaurice, Bill Boorman, Dick Anderson, Corinne Hirsch, Bob Harold, Tom Austin, Phil Burke and Bob Adams.

ADD ONE REUNION

After graduating from St. Joseph's school a year ago, the class spread to the far corners of the state to attend schools. With people home on vacation, what could be more in order than a reunion party, thought class member Judy Junkord.

Sending invitations to her former classmates, she managed to gather the following for a very successful party:

* * *

Not to let a good thing rest Mrs. Miese gave her son Bob a surprise reunion party last week end after the aforementioned St Raymond's swimming spree. Present and accounted for at this also very successful fling were Jack Kenny, Michel Duin, Terry Mahoney, John Garibaldi, Jim Nicewonger, Susan Smart, Judy Junkord, Joanne Camp, Jackie Gerbo, Dorothy Moore, Jim McFarland. Supper and dancing kept the reunioners happy.

That's about all for now, Jo. Write soon and don't evaporate in the heat wave.

The Menlo Park Teeners.

8 POUNDS, 10 OUNCES was the weigh-in statistics of a baby girl who July 15 joined the Dennis Reuckert family of 1334 Carlton avenue.
